SENATOR DILL, heartless Democrat from Washington, introduces a bill requesting President Coolidge to remove Theodore Roosevelt, 2d, from his position as assistant Secretary of the Navy.

That sounds like blasphemy to admirers of the Roosevelt dynasty. Senator Dill has nothing to say in support of his suggestion except that Roosevelt was a director of the Sinclair Oil Company, which got the naval oil reserves, before he, Mr. Roosevelt, became assistant Secretary of the Navy.

WHEN THERE is the fact that Mr. Roosevelt used the machine, without any instructions from the President, to drive squatters off the naval oil reserves AFTER Mr. Sinclair got it.

The squatters didn't seem to disturb anybody while the government owned the land.

Then there is the other little fact that when Theodore Roosevelt got out of the Sinclair Oil Company in order to become Assistant Secretary of the Navy his brother was put on the Sinclair Oil Company payroll and his salary raised steadily from $5,000 to $15,000 a year, although, as Mr. Sinclair testified, the young man wasn't doing anything worth while.

The public will agree that Senator Dill has a very weak foundation for his suggestion that a member of the Roosevelt family be disturbed in his hereditary right to hold public office.

HAVE IN MIND, when you buy stocks, THIS:

Will those that run the company continue to run it honestly? If they are honest, how long will they live?

Remember that any company can have the profits and insides cut out of it by gentlemen that care to work it, as has been frequently done.

Poor fools that bought the stock of the New York Railways Company, and had every dollar of their money stolen, know that.

IT IS ALLEGED now that the big telephone company has a Western Electric Company to eat up a nice part of the profits that should go to stockholders. That's for the telephone company to answer.

When the Vanderbilts built the New York Central railroad, they first kept one or two bridges as their private property—the company's stockholders didn't own them—and they charged so much for every passenger that went over them.

They also kept the New York Central depot in New York, and

BACK BAY BURGLAR CAUGHT

Probe Reveals $250,000 Land Fraud

DAUGHERTY ACCUSED IN 'GRAB'

Witness Says He Aided in Hushing Up Deal That Cost Indians 10,000 Acres

Washington, April 1.—A $250,000 land fraud case in Oklahoma and a Federal judgeship appointment in New York were gathered today within the far-flung miscellany of topics receiving attention of the Senate Daugherty investigating committee.

H. M. Peck, formerly United States attorney for Western Oklahoma, testified that Harry M. Daugherty had helped cause a delay and failure in prosecution of the "Miller Brothers" land case in that State, with the result that the Miller group obtained and still held land worth more than a quarter of a million dollars and have paid only a fine of $10,000.

Wayne Wilson of New York was called to testify about an effort to get J. Van Vechten Olcott appointed a Federal judge. He denied that he had told Olcott it would be necessary to put up a large amount of money for the "boys," or had ever discussed the matter in any way with officials of the Department of Justice.

The case involves 10,000 acres valued at $50 an acre, Prek said. When it was ready for trial at Guthrie in May, 1921, he added, a "personal" letter from Attorney General Daugherty directed that a continuance be taken to the Fall term of court.

Prek described a request for his resignation, received from Daugherty in September, 1921, and his subsequent re-employment as a special prosecutor for the government. He referred the committee to Senator Harreld of Oklahoma as to the reasons for his re-employment.

The criminal cases ended in pleas of guilty and fines, the Department of Justice specifically directing that course to be taken, the witness said, but he added that no civil actions to recover the land had been inaugurated and that the Miller brothers still had them.

Prek said that in four years experience as United States attorney, he had never known of another case in which the attorney-general took such personal interest. Acceptance of the guilty plea in the criminal cases was decided on, the witness said, despite his recommendations that penitentiary sentences be demanded.

TOLD TO DROP CASE

"I would not agree to anything which would relieve George L. Miller of a jail sentence," said the witness.

He received orders from the attorney-general, he continued, to make no recommendations to the court as to sentences, and to dismiss the charge against the Miller brothers. The three others pleaded guilty and George L. Miller was fined $7,500, Victor Norton $1,250 and J. C. Newton $250.

"The United States judge in sentencing them said he made the penalties fines because the government

BATHING BEAUTY MAY BELONG TO GANG

Ida Giller Arrested by Lynn Police, Charged With Shoplifting

Ida Giller, blonde bathing beauty of Revere, was arrested by Lynn police today on a charge of shoplifting, which the authorities declare may connect her closely with the Boston ring of shoplifters.

Mrs. Giller, who is a divorcee and who was adjudged the most beautiful bather at Revere Beach two seasons ago, was arrested as she was leaving Municipal Court in Boston after facing similar charges.

At the woman's apartments at No. 49 Dix street, Revere, the Lynn police declare they found an evening gown and other apparel worth $125 which the woman is accused of stealing in a Market street store in Lynn Saturday night.

The police are working on the theory that the Giller woman is associated with the same gang of which Mary McGunn of No. 19 Raymond street, Allston, was a member.

The McGun girl several days ago testified that shes tole in the various stores and disposed of the loot at the dance halls about the city. She was given four months in the House of Correction.

Investigation disclosed that the girls used the same method in carrying on their operations. Driving up to an exclusive women's wear shop in an expensive automobile, one of the girls would enter the shop and ask to see the most expensive gowns. The girl invariably wore a long heavy coat.

After the prospective customer would leave, it was invariably found a high-priced gown was missing—carried out under the shoplifter's big coat.

The Giller woman's age is uncertain. Police say she might be anywhere from twenty-three to thirty. She will be arraigned later in the Lynn District Court.

BOSTON DOCTOR KILLED BY AUTO

Dr. Philip Castleman, a Deputy Health Commissioner of Boston and associate professor of bacteriology at the Harvard Medical School, died today at City Hospital, three hours after being struck by an automobile.

The health deputy, who lived at No. 483 Beacon street, was crossing Commonwealth avenue at Massachusetts avenue late last night on his way from his home and office to the residence of a friend.

An automobile, driven by Elliot B. Davidson, a Technology student, bore down on the doctor and struck him before he could leap to safety. He was nuried a considerable distance, his head striking the asphalt hichway.

It was believed that Dr. Castleman was dead when he was picked up, but he lived three hours. He sustained a fractured skull.

GOODWIN PENALIZES JUDGE

Suspends Auto License of J. T. Moriarty, Chicopee, Following Drunken Driving Charge

The automobile operator's license of Judge John T. Moriarty, associate justice of Chicopee District Court, was suspended today by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin.

The suspension was ordered, according to Goodwin, as a result of two continuances in Holyoke court, where Judge Moriarty is charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

It followed, also, Goodwin's recent attack on lower court judges, in which he declared that one-third of the lower court judges are not enforcing the law against drunken auto drivers and that these one-third of the judges can be "influenced."

This statement by Goodwin brought a return fire from lower court judges, one judge—John E. O'Donnell of Northampton—characterizing Goodwin as a "liar and defamer."

Judge Moriarty was arrested in Holyoke after his machine is alleged to have collided with a car owned by Marie L. LeClere.

He pleaded not guilty when the case was called in Holyoke Court before Judge Merrill L. Welcker, and it was continued for one week.

A second continuance was allowed, when a doctor's certificate was received by the court, stating that Judge Moriarty was too ill to appear.

It was asserted by the arresting policeman in Holyoke that he heard the crash between the judge's machine and that of the LeClere woman, which was parked at the curb.

Then, according to the policeman, he say the judge driving toward him with the rim of the right front wheel gone and the spoke-ends hammering the pavement.

BOWIE OPENING DAY RACES CALLED OFF

Bowie, Md., April 1.—Maryland racing season inaugural at Bowie track struck a snag today when weather conditions forced canceling of the day's card and disappointed thousands who had gathered for the opening.

A heavy snowfell throughout the morning covered the track.

Today's entries will stand and will be run tomorrow, it was announced.

CONSULATE DISPUTE IN ENGLAND ENDED

London, April 1 (A.P.)—An official announcement that the dispute over the closing of the American consulate at Newcastle-on-Tyne has been settled is expected tomorrow. The settlement, it is understood, will be along the lines foreshadowed in recent dispatches.

CONFESSES TO BREAKS POLICE SAY

Walter Raymond Arrested and Stolen Property Found in South End

With the arrest of Walter Raymond, twenty-six, of no known address, today, Boston police declare they have captured the burglar who during the past several months, has committed a series of daring robberies in Back Bay apartments and homes.

The arrest followed the discovery of several thousand dollars worth of loot in the home of Nicholas Passaretti and Dominick Muieri at No. 38 Compton street, South End.

Six charges of breaking and entering have been preferred against Raymond, and the police say he has confessed to several. One robbery which occurred at the home of Herbert A. Wood, No. 282 Newberry street, netted Raymond plunder worth $2,400. Most of this was recovered at the South End house.

The Wood home was entered while members of the family were absent, on the night of January 21. A neighbor saw Raymond leaving the house but did not report the matter to the police for some hours.

When the major portion of the loot was recovered the police got a line on Raymond and he was arraigned today by Inspector Frank McNabb. The two South End men have been held for receiving stolen goods.

According to the police, Raymond gained entrance to the apartments and homes with skeleton keys.

Raymond has admitted burglarizing several apartments on Hemenway street in the Back Bay and police are now endeavoring to recover the booty he took from these places. In Municipal Court his case was continued until later in the week.

TWO KILLED IN GUNMEN FIGHT

Detroit, April 1.—Revolvers that roared in "Robbers Roost," a row of shacks in Ecorse, a down-river suburb, took two lives in a fight between gunmen and the police. Six men are in jail suspected of several robberies and holdups; $6,000 in stolen currency has been recovered and detectives in a police flyer in China are pursuing a freight train on which another member of the gang escaped.

The dead men are Benjamin Monte, an Ecorse patrolman and Leo Iorbett, gunman, who, despite handcuffs, shot Monte, who was guarding him, and then himself was shot by Albert Jaeger, chief of police in Ecorse.

30 HURT IN BROOKLYN IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH

New York, April 1.—Thirty persons were injured, three seriously, when a trolley car crashed into a government mail truck in Brooklyn today.

The injured were cut by flying glass, bruised and shaken up. The truck was wrecked.

FIREBUG IMPERILS 9 LIVES

Brookline Section in Terror After Incendiary Flames Menace Two Families

Police of Brookline today are seeking a firebug who terrorized residents of Kenwood street.

Within less than twenty-four hours he has set fire to two dwellings, and in the early hours of this morning placed nine lives in jeopardy and drove two families to the street in their night clothes.

The first fire, believed to have been set, was discovered on the back porch of the home of H. L. Aldrich No. 41 Kenwood street. Mrs. Aldrich was in the kitchen of her home when she smelled smoke. Going to the back door she opened it and discovered the porch ablaze.

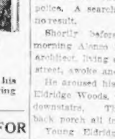
OIL-SOAKED RAGS.

In the centre of the blaze on the floor of the porch was a pile of oil-soaked rags. With a broom and a pail of water Mrs. Aldrich beat out the flames. Then she notified the police. A search was started, with no result.

Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning Alonzo D. Wright, Boston architect, living at No. 61 Kenwood street, awoke and smelled smoke.

He aroused his wife and nephew, Eldridge Woods, twelve, and rushed downstairs. There he found the back porch all in flames.

Young Eldridge, overcome, was later rescued.



Eldridge Wood

The fire had gained consider-able headway, and the Brookline fire department was summoned. Wright sent in an alarm, and members of his family rushed to the second floor of the two-family house and aroused

TRUCE IN MILK STRIKE; PRICE IS REDUCED

Slashes of one cent and a half a cent in the price of milk to distributors and retailers are announced by the great milk organizations in the Boston district just as it becomes known that the Milk Drivers' Union has postponed its proposed strike action until tonight.

The first announcement of a cut in price came from the New England Milk Producers' Association, making the price down half a cent.

Within an hour the Turner Centre System, one of the other important big organizations "in the milk war," replied to this cut by one twice as large.

Of two other large organizations operating in Greater Boston officials of one announced that they had "nothing to say," while executives of the other were reported to be "considering the matter."

The postponement by 24 hours in the matter of a strike vote by the Milk Drivers' Union was brought about through the intercession of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

Some time today the milk distributors will draw up a new proposition on that proposition the drivers will take a vote tonight.

More than 1,000 members of the Milk Drivers, Creamery Workers, and Chauffeurs' Union voted at a meeting at union headquarters, No. 995 Washington street, to postpone action, after a committee of the union which had been in conference with representatives of the employers advised such action.

FREEDOM SOUGHT FOR PAYROLL ROBBERS

An application for the release on parole of Alfred Hirsh of Chicago and Sam Shratt of New York, serving long-term sentences for the killing of Frank R. Brown, paymaster of the General Electric Company of Lynn and the robbery of the payroll of nearly $15,000 December 26, 1918, will be heard by the State Parole Board at the Charlestown State prison Thursday.

Hirsh was sentenced to ten to twelve years and Shratt to eleven to fifteen years.

WITNESS DENIES STORY OF PLOT TO SELL JUDGESHIP

would undoubtedly bring civil suits to recover the lands for the Indians," Peck said, "and for that reason the penalty would be adequate.

"However, the civil suits were never brought. The Miller brothers are still in possession of the land. Oil has been discovered on it in several places."

Peck said he had no personal knowledge as to why the civil suits were not pushed. He wrote a report to the Department of Justice, he said, saying that Oklahoma people felt "the Miller brothers were able to escape the consequences of illegal acts because of political and financial influence."

GOT LAND FOR $10,000

Counsel for Daugherty asked if a recovery suit in the Miller case was not "in course of preparation."

"That would be news to me," Peck replied.

Senator Ashhurst, Democrat, Arizona, asked Peck if the net result of the transactions described did not mean that the Miller group obtained land worth a quarter of a million or more for "a $10,000 fine."

Peck

Wayne Wilson of New York, named by J. Van Voehten Olcott as having suggested to Olcott a payment for "the boys," in connection with a proposal that Olcott seek a federal judgeship in New York, flatly denied that he had ever "made any such statement at all."

Chairman Brookhart repeated Olcott's story to the witness, saying that Olcott had said $10,000 was demanded from him in consideration for an appointment.

"Nothing like that was said," Wilson asserted.

"What was said about money to Olcott?" asked Senator Wheeler.

The witness said men to whom he had talked had suggested it might be "an expensive campaign."

But he had told Olcott, he added, that there was no reason for him to pay "a red cent."

Hamon Spent $105,000 in Committee Fight

Washington, April 1.—The political activities of the late Jake Hamon, Republican national committeeman for Oklahoma, came under scrutiny before the oil committee again today in an avowed effort by the committee prosecutor, Senator Walsh, to establish a conspiracy as far back as 1920 to select a "complacent Secretary of the Interior."

Under the Montana Senator's insistent questioning, J. E. Dyche, who managed Hamon's campaign for the place on the national committee, testified that the fight had cost Hamon $105,000, but insisted that he never desired to have a place in the Cabinet.

He emphatically declared that none of the money was spent for "bribery or corruption."

The witness ridiculed Al Jennings' testimony that Hamon had told him of large money payments to the late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and others to secure the nomination of Warren G. Harding, and of indiscriminate use of money among members of the Oklahoma delegation to the Chicago convention.

WASN'T FOR HARDING

As a matter of fact, Dyche said, Hamon did not spend a dime to influence the delegation of his state to vote for Harding, but on the contrary, advised them to vote for Lowden on two ballots after they were ready to get on the Harding bandwagon.

R. H. Wilson, formerly Oklahoma superintendent of public instruction, testified that Hamon had boasted to him of putting over Harding's nomination and had told him of contributing $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty, the Harding preconvention manager, for campaign expenses.

After hearing these two witnesses the committee adjourned the hearing until tomorrow, but no session will be held at that time unless William Boyce Thompson, formerly of the Republican National Committee, reaches Washington in the meantime. A new subpoena for his appearance "forthwith" has been issued, but process servers have been unable to serve it.

SAYS JENNINGS LIED

"Nothing to it," declared witness Dyche, when asked about Al Jennings' testimony that Hamon had told him he gave $250,000 to the late Senator Penrose, Pennsylvania; $25,000 to Will Hays and $25,000 to Daugherty, to bring about Harding's nomination.

Asked about Jennings' testimony that Hamon had told him he spent money indiscriminately with the Oklahoma delegation, the witness replied:

"If Jennings said that, he lied. There wasn't a dime spent on that delegation."

Dyche declared he was with Hamon at Chicago and went home with him, and "he didn't even buy me a dinner."

THREATENS HEART OF LYNN

FLAMES AT LYNN DRIVE MANY TO STREET

Entire Business District Was Threatened by Blaze; Aid Called From Swampscott

Fire, which for a time threatened the entire business district of Lynn, swept through the four-story business block at Nos. 235 and 237 Union street, Lynn, early today, causing $25,000 damage to the Harrison Drug Company and W. F. Parsons, jeweler.

So threatening was the fire at one time that the Swampscott department was summoned. Scores of residents in apartment houses on Pearl street, parallel to Union street, were driven into the streets when it was believed their homes could not be saved.

The fire broke out in the upper floors of the building, caused by an overheated furnace.

The Harrison Drug Company and the Parsons Jewelry store occupied the first floor of the building while the drug company used the second floor for a storage room. The third and fourth floors were unoccupied.

The fact that there was little or no wind saved the adjoining buildings, the firemen succeeding in confining the fire to the single block. While the upper floors of the building were gutted by fire the stocks in the drug and jewelry stores were almost completely destroyed by water.

NEW STREET SIGNS FOR BOSTON SOON

New street signs will be in order shortly for Boston's streets, regardless of whether they are in the retail shopping district or in the suburban section.

Councilor William C. S. Healey's order for new street signs in the retail shopping district was amended to reach all over the city.

Daniel Bloomfield, of the retail trade board of the Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the council and urged that it pass such an order.

He said there was no street signs on School street or Temple place. They would be a great convenience to visitors and a help to citizens, he said.

The money for the signs will be incorporated in this year's budget.

the family of Gerald A. Healy, Boston lawyer.

The Healy family consists of Healy, his wife and four children. All rushed out through the smoke to the street.

Firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before it ate into the interior of the house.

Three daughters of Mr. Healy braved the smoke and flames to save the cat, "Virginia," the pet of Edna Healy, and several diplomas awarded to Genevieve, graduate of the Sargent school. Madeleine Healy assisted her sisters in these rescues.

Investigation by the police and firemen proved, the police say, that the fire had been deliberately set under the back porch.

RESIDENTS IN TERROR

Word spread through the neighborhood and throughout the remainder of the night residents of the street lay awake fearing the fiend would visit their homes and start a fire that might bring tragedy.

Special officers have been assigned to the case and the police declare they will not stop until the culprit has been discovered.

Meanwhile terror fills the hearts of the residents of that section.

HALTS COREY HILL HOME BUILDERS

Building Commissioner Ernest Lyon of Brookline has suspended the permits for building twenty two-family residence in the Corey Hill district pending a legal opinion, that the Selectmen requested from Ralph A. Stewart, the town counsel. These permits were issued prior to the town meeting that adopted a single family residence for the district and six others in the town.

$25,000 BUSINESS BLOCK FIRE

In the building at 235 and 237 Union street, the Harrison Drug Co. and W. F. Parsons, jeweler, were burned out at Lynn today in a blaze that threatened the business section of the city. An overheated furnace was the cause and but for the lack of wind, the fire would have spread through the district.

FIND $10,000 IN NARCOTICS ON PRISONER

George A. Pato Is Trapped in South Station by Federal Drug Agents

George A. Pato of No. 34 Bremen street, East Boston, arrested in the South Station by Federal narcotic agents, is alleged to have had on his person over 17,000 grains of heroin, valued at $10,000.

Pato was caught in a throng of commuters after having been followed for ten days. He told the Federal men that the pasteboard box he had under his arm contained chocolates, but when the officers ripped it open they found a big supply of heroin, they say.

Pato is twenty-two years of age and married. He had long been suspected by members of the narcotic squad as a dope peddler. He was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Storey on a charge of violating the narcotic act. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $10,000 bail for the Federal Grand Jury.

The arrest of Pato resulted from a trap set by special agents from Washington. One agent made a deal with Pato to buy 252 ounces of heroin and when the latter appeared he was seized. He had brought along only thirty-six ounces, worth about $10,000.

BOBHAIRED GIRL BANDIT SHOOTS DOWN BROOKLYN PAYMASTER

ESCAPES BUT GETS NO CASH

Victim Hit Three Times in the Breast When He Refused the Command of "Hands Up!"

New York, April 1.—Brooklyn's famous bob-haired bandit and her six-foot male companion shed blood for the first time today in their sensational series of holdups when they probably fatally wounded Edward Mazeo, paymaster of the National Biscuit Company distributing headquarters in Brooklyn.

They were frightened off before they could get a sum of money Mazeo carried from the bank for the company's weekly payroll. Police do not know whether the bob-haired bandit or her companion fired the shots.

When Mazeo replied to a command to "hand over the cash with an incredulous "you're kidding," he was shot in the breast three times. The bobhaired bandit and her companion fired in a sedan.

Police found a similar machine several blocks from the National Biscuit plant and in it a liveried chauffeur, bound and gagged. The car had been stolen detectives said.

The girl was said by police to answer almost perfectly the description of the bob-haired young woman who, always accompanied by a tall dark man, has figured in a series of robberies in Brooklyn and Manhattan.

The woman entered the retail department of the biscuit company's factory just after Mazeo arrived with the weekly payroll and ordered 10 cents' worth of confections. Her companion followed close behind and before Mazeo could move ordered him to hand over the payroll.

Mazeo lunged forward to grapple with the man. He was repulsed by three pistol shots fired from his chest.

15 INJURED BY BLAST IN STROMBOLI CREST

Rome, April 1 (A.P.).—A violent explosion occurred in the crater of the Volcano of Stromboli, off the coast of Sicily, on March 28, it was announced today in a communique from the Royal Meteorogical Bureau.

Windows in the vicinity were shattered by the shock and fifteen persons were injured.

ORPHANED GIRL GETS GUARDIAN SHE LIKED

MRS. MISKELLY AND RUTH HOGARTY.
Three entered a legal battle for appointment as guardian of Ruth Hogarty, eleven-year-old ophan daughter of a Camp Devens influenza victim. The court named the one she liked, Mrs. Minnie J. Miskelly, a relative of the girl's mother.

A bitter legal battle for custody of Ruth E. Hogarty, eleven-year-old orphan and beneficiary of her father's $10,000 government war risk insurance, was ended today in Suffolk Probate Court, when Judge Dolan appointed Mrs. Minnie J. Miskelly of No. 1 Phipps place, Charlestown as permanent guardian.

At the same time, Judge Dolan appointed the Old Colony Trust Company to take charge of the balance remaining from the insurance of Thomas M. Hogarty, the father, who died at Camp Devens.

Mrs. Miskelly is a relative of the girl's mother. Two other contestants for custody were: Mrs. Katherine Kelley of No. 187 Lamartine street, Jamaica Plain, sister of Ruth's father, and Harold Staudigl, her stepfather.

Ruth was placed in the care of Mrs. Kelley by her mother when the mother went to Lakeville Sanitarium in Middleboro for treatment of tuberculosis. Ruth's mother died later at the home of a sister in Roxbury.

Charles O. Currier, agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children testified that he believed the Kelley home more desirable, but that he thought Ruth preferred to live with Mrs. Miskelly.

During the cross-examination of Currier, a religious issue was raised in the fight. The girl's mother, a Protestant, had allowed the girl to be raised as a Catholic, the religion of her father, Thomas M. Hogarty.

It was indicated that the girl would be allowed to be raised in the Catholic faith even though her custody is awarded to Mrs. Miskelly, who is a Protestant.

Hogarty, the childs' father, died at Camp Devens during the influenza epidemic. Three years later his widow married Staudigl. The mother also died.

PUT MONEY IN NAME OF CASHIERS

Redmond Funds Deposited That Way to Avoid Attachment, Lamont Says

George F. Redmond, head of the bankrupt brokerage house bearing his name, met one of the firm's one-time customers in the corridor of the Federal building today during a recess of the receivers' hearing.

"You are looking well," said Redmond, extending his hand.

The former customer ignored the hand as he replied, "I guess I'm feeling as well as you are now."

"I don't know," said Redmond. "They're tossing me around something awful."

"Well," replied the other, "it's your turn. The customers have had theirs."

Receiver Brickley again conducted the hearing with President James Lamont of the defunct brokerage house on the stand.

Mr. Brickley drew from Lamont the admission that he knew William M. Sheridan (the mystery man in the Redmond case). Lamont said Sheridan was head of the Merchants International Agency. He denied that Sheridan was connected with the Redmond company.

"Do you remember any checks being made payable to the Merchants International Agency?" asked Mr. Brickley.

"I refuse to answer on the grounds that it might incriminate me," said Lamont.

Lamont also refused to answer a question as to Sheridan's present whereabouts.

CASHIER HELD FUNDS

Receiver Brickley brought out that it was the custom of the company to draw certificates of deposit in the name of one of the cashiers and deposit them in a safety deposit box.

"Why were there certificates of deposit not made out in the name of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc.?" asked Mr. Brickley.

"The bank had told me that if this was done the money could be traced," said Lamont. "We did this so the money could not be attached."

Lamont refused to answer when asked what the condition of the company was during any one of the past four years.

"How much personal property did you own on March 4 of this year?" asked Mr. Brockley.

"I refuse to answer."

Q—What personal property did Mrs. Lamont own besides the home at Natick? A—Some chickens, two horses, pigs, a cow and an automobile.

Q—Did you ever see any certificates of deposit made out in the name of Mr. and Mrs. Redmond, John Diggins or Arthur Diggins (the Diggins brothers are brothers of Mrs. Redmond). A—I refuse to answer.

Q—During the years 1923-1924 did you receive anything from Mr. Redmond outside your salary. A.—Some Christmas presents.

Q—I hope he was generous. A—He wasn't—very.

REFUSES TO ANSWER.

Q—Did you have a book-keeper named Patrick Crow? A—Yes.

Q—Did you tell him to leave certain books out of the vault on the night before the company closed its doors? A—I refuse to answer.

Lamont was asked concerning Henry L. Ryan, a former cashier. He said that Ryan was discharged in October, 1922, for dishonesty.

Q—Do you know anything about five certified checks made payable to Henry L. Ryan on February 3, 1922, and cashed on February 25, 1922? A—I do not remember them.

Q—Why should these bear the endorsement of Arthur Diggins? A—They were made out in Ryan's name and then endorsed to Mr. Diggins, I suppose. That would be usual.

JUDGE VACATES MEANS' WARRANTS

New York, April 1.—Federal Judge Gavin today vacated the bench warrants issued yesterday for Gaston B. Means and his secretary, Elmer W. Jarnecke, when they failed to appear for trial on indictments for conspiracy to violate the Volstead Acts in the wholesale withdrawal of liquor from government warehouses. The court also remitted the $15,000 bail each, which had been ordered forfeited.

ANTI-PETTING PARTY BILL NEAR PASSAGE

Albany, N. Y., April 1 (I.N.S.).—The Kirkland Anti-Petting Party bill has been advanced to the order of final passage in the Assembly. It would prohibit the parking of automobiles along state or county highways at night.

Shortly after the bill was introduced the sponsors received scores of letters of protest from young people.

Deadly as Drink

"CANNED HEAT"

For the purpose for which this product is made, "canned heat" is not dangerous, but seven men died after melting it and consuming the denatured alcohol which is used in the product.

Toledo, April 2.—Eight men are dead as the result of consuming "canned heat"—solidified alcohol, intended for light cooking purposes. Six were members of one party that staged a celebration in the Workingman's Hotel. Another died in St. Vincent's Hospital after being taken from a rooming house.

The eight victims are:

William Wallace, Tom Kelly, William Schultz, Milton French, David Blue, Peter Miller, Barney Kase of Lansing, Mich., and John Kosenak of this city. William Gross is dying at a hospital.

Blue was found dead in the Workingman's Hotel, four others were found dying in their rooms, and the sixth man in the hotel party died in Municipal Hospital after being found in the street.

"Canned Heat" is a deadly poison and the fact is plainly marked on the label.

WOMAN STABS RIVAL IN ROW OVER 'SHEIK'

Man Disappears as the South End Police Arrest Laura Young

For a time today it looked as if Miss Young had won—and then again it looked as if Miss Brown had a shade the better of the argument.

Then the knife appeared and Miss Brown, in a twinkling of the blade, had lost both the battle and her sheik. Not conclusively her sheik, however, for it was over the question of whether he was her sheik or Miss Young's sheik that the whole affair started.

TREATED FOR WOUNDS

The police are looking for the sheik who departed suddenly from the scene of conflict, leaving both battlers and his favors not only in the lurch but in the hands of blue-coated escorts from East Dedham street station.

One gallant escorted Miss Young to the police station, while the other escorted Miss Brown to the City Hospital, where she was treated for stab wounds on the back and right shoulder.

According to the police the unidentified colored male was in an enviable position when Laura Young, who is nineteen, colored, and lives at No. 41 Albion street, "met up" at Appleton and Dudley streets, South End, with Agatha Brown, who is twenty-one, colored, and lives at No. 26 Yarmouth street.

DREW A KNIFE.

The question of which girl was most in the sheik's favor came up between the two girls and the discussion rapidly developed into an altercation and then a fracas. Fists flew and hair-pulling were resorted to and then, suddenly, according to the police, the rapid hand of Miss Young held a knife.

That decided both the battle and the question right there. Miss Brown was a poor second. The sheik had gone. The policemen had gone.

The police blotter says Miss Young committed assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

CORCORAN CASE GOES TO JURY

Believed That Verdict Will Be Reached Today; Judge's Charge

The case of William J. Corcoran and three co-defendants in the Middlesex Superior Court at Cambridge, is in the hands of the jury.

After the charge to the jury by Judge Winifred Whiting, it retired shortly after the noon hour. Court attaches believe a verdict will be reached today.

Judge Whiting consumed two hours in charging the jury. With unusual care the court took up the indictments against Corcoran and the other defendants and clearly defined each of the legal phases involved.

The judge discussed at length the testimony of Harry E. Levenson, who turned State's evidence in the trial just closed and declared this testimony "should be given only such weight as you think it ought to have."

ONLY ONE COUNT.

The judge informed the jury that only one count against Corcoran should be considered by the jury, viz., the count alleging "the threatening of Kenneth Merrill with a criminal writ with intent to extort money."

The other defendants, Theodore Hearn, J. Warren Kane and Mrs. Thelma Duggan, are accused of being accessories before the fact. The court informed the jury that should a verdict of not guilty be returned against Corcoran, the others would automatically be freed of the charges against them.

The definition of "reasonable doubt" occupied a considerable portion of the court's charge. He told the jury the burden of proof is on the government.

PROOF MUST BE GREAT.

"The proof must be greater than would satisfy you in the ordinary affairs of your life," said Judge Whiting.

In deciding the question of reasonable doubt the court held that the jurymen should approach the question as men seeking the truth and not asking for a doubt.

The confession of Mrs. Theresa Duggan, which was introduced in the trial, should be considered only in Mrs. Duggan's case, the judge charged.

He instructed the jury to decide for themselves whether or not this confession had been secured as the result of threats or promises of gain, and if it was believed to have been secured under these conditions it should be disregarded.

ARE ACCOMPLICES

The court declared that Mrs. Lillian Reese and Harry E. Levenson turned State's evidence and that both must be regarded as accomplices in the case. "You must consider their testimony very carefully, giving it only such weight as you think it ought to have," said Judge Whiting.

The court read excerpts from the testimony given by Levenson, Corcoran and Kenneth Merrill to refresh the minds of the jurors and he also read that portion of Levenson's testimony which gave a clean bill of health to Theodore Hearn.

2 DYING IN LEAP FROM TRAIN

Passengers Jump at Plymouth to Avoid Walking Back From Station

Plymouth, April 1.—Leaping from a passenger train to avoid walking back from the railroad station probably cost John McCartin of No. 7 Lang place, Cambridge, and Frank Walley of No. 7 Prospect street, Maynard, their lives at the Lothrop street crossing, near their boarding place.

Walley fell under the train and it was necessary to amputate both the legs at the knees. Four of McCartin's ribs were shattered. Both worked at the Plymouth Yarn Mills.

DRAPER FACES MOTHER TODAY IN COURT

Former Hopedale Man Opens Fight in Kentucky for $300,000 Estate

Frankfort, Ky., April 1.—The suit of George O. Draper, Jr., of this city against his mother, Mrs. Lily Duncan Draper, of Santa Barbara, Cal., was called in Federal Court here today.

Young Draper is seeking to recover an estate valued at $300,000, over which, he alleges, his mother obtained control while he was under a misapprehension of the circumstances under which she secured his signature to transference papers.

Mrs. Draper is the divorced wife of George Otis Draper of Hopedale, Mass., scion of the millionaire Draper family of Massachusetts. Mrs. Draper has arrived here, where she was born, to face her son in court.

$2,500 REFUSED 'MUSIC WEEK' BY COUNCIL

Appropriation for Observance Asked by Curley Is Rejected

The Boston City Council rendered official connection with the nation-wide observance of "Music Week," when it refused to vote an appropriation of $2,500 requested for the observance of "Music Week," May 4 to 10, by Mayor Curley.

Opponents of the measure charged that the music committee selected by the Mayor was representative of the Back Bay rather than of the entire city.

"Let the Mayor send in a list of representative names," said Councilman Moriarty, who led the opposition, "and I should vote the money. As it is this won't be a Boston music week; it will be a Back Bay music week. Not even the president of the City Council is on the committee. All they want from us is the money."

Councilman Lane, who led the group who favored the appropriation, pleaded that Boston should not disgrace itself by being the only one out of 150 cities not to join in the celebration. Councilman Watson also argued that it would be bad publicity for the city not to appropriate the money.

BISHOP MEAD TO LEAD CONFERENCE

Bishop Mead

Bishop Charles L. Mead of Denver is coming to New England to preside over New England Methodist Conference. He has been bishop since 1920 and is one of the youngest bishops of the Methodist church in the country. Bishop Mead will begin his work in Vermont and will preside over the conference outside of the Boston district in co-operation with Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, who will divide the spring conferences with Bishop Mead.

By BETTY ALDEN.

A MASSIVE feudal fortress built in medieval times is the Chateau Chavaniac-Lafayette.

Here, over two hundred years ago, was born and lived the great Lafayette.

And here, today, largely through the generosity of Americans, are clothed, fed and educated some three hundred boy orphans of the allied countries.

Today they call it a preventorium, a school and a home for World War orphans combined. Besides, the north tower of the chateau has been transformed into a museum, where are gathered some historic treasures, which played their part in the life of the romantic soldier who crossed the seas to fight for America.

Mme. Le Verrier

To tell all about the Chateau Chavaniac-Lafayette, which is located in the heart of the Auvergne Mountains of Southern France, and its tremendously vital work, would be impossible within this limited space.

There has come to Boston a distinguished visitor whose purpose is to interest Americans even more keenly in this project.

She is Madame Charles Le Verrier, the Directress of the Chateau, who is at present the house-guest of Mrs. Joshua Crane of Westwood.

On Thursday and Friday of this week Madame Le Verrier will speak informally at the home of Mrs. Edwin Farnham Greene, No. 9 Chestnut street. She has already talked to interested groups at Mrs. Lindsley Loring's home in Westwood and the Commonwealth avenue home of Mrs. W. Arthur Dupee. Yesterday afternoon another group gathered in the drawing rooms of Mrs. I. Tucker Burr's home to listen to the interesting French visitor.

Among the Boston matrons who have shown especial interest in the chateau and its work are Mesdames Edward Cunningham, Herbert F. Otis, Richard M. Saltonstall, William Farnsworth, as well as Miss Mary Denny and the matrons mentioned above.

An important phase of Madame Le Verrier's mission in coming to this country is to encourage Americans to visit the chateau when they go to France. In fact, to make of it a memorial to Lafayette, as Mt. Vernon is to Washington.

I NOTE that Mrs. Robert Lovett, Jr., and Mrs. Bulkeley L. Wells (Helen Bonnell), both formerly of Boston, are on the committee for an Oriental Jamboree to be given in New York on April 26. Vanity Fair has turned over their entire store for the affair, which will benefit the Association of Music School Settlement.

DAWES EXPERTS TO WIND UP WORK SOON

Paris, April 1 (AP)—The reparation experts of the Dawes committee met this afternoon with the prospect brighter than at any time this week for a speedy winding up of their work. Although General Dawes and Owen D. Young, his American associate, have booked their passage tentatively for April 22, their assistants are planning an earlier departure, probably the end of next week.

The English have declared that the percentage from the loan based on the railways is excessive, while the Americans have argued that it is less than the burden the railroads in the United States bore after the Civil War.

EYEWITNESS OF BAUER MURDER IS SOUGHT

Tip Leads Police to Plainfield, N. J.: Bloodhounds Tried, But Fail

New York, April 1 (Universal)—Detectives seeking the slayer of Mrs. Maudo Bauer are in Plainfield, N. J., where they are seeking an eye-witness to the murder.

The authorities got trace of this man through one of more than 100 anonymous letters they have received since Mrs. Bauer's body was found in the woods shortly after she had accepted an invitation to ride with a strange man.

Detectives are busy checking up the owners of pocket pistols of the type with which Mrs. Bauer was killed. They have learned that the renewal permits for arms of this type have been taken out this year. The holders of those have been given clean bills of health, but the authorities are looking for the owners of "bootleg" pistols.

Bloodhounds that were put on the trail soon lost the scent and were recalled.

WOMAN'S ATTACKER GIVEN 75 YEARS

$100,000 AND NAVAL MAN DISAPPEAR

Paymaster Short in Accounts Faces Court Martial if Caught

Washington, April 1 (Universal)—The Navy Department is searching for a paymaster who overstayed leave from his destroyer in a Gulf of Mexico port and whose accounts are said to be short not less than $100,000, it became known.

The paymaster, a lieutenant of the supply corps, is said to have sailed in February with his destroyer from a California port, bound for the war games around Culebra Island in the Caribbean. The war games over, the fleet scattered.

On one of the destroyers headed for Mobile, New Orleans, or Galveston, was the paymaster for whom the navy is now looking. The paymaster shoved off on leave with his fellow officers. He was not due back for about ten days, and spoke of going to visit friends or relatives. Leave up, all officers and men reported, save the man who had been keeping the money.

charged so much for every car that ran into it.

THEY ALSO had what is called the "White" freight line, and insiders made an extra profit on that.

If you wanted your freight to stay a month or so on the road you sent it by the ordinary freight method that belonged to the stockholders. If you wanted your freight sent promptly, you sent it by the inside company.

YOU CAN NEVER be sure when money that ought to go to stockholders will go to insiders in the shape of graft and extravagant prices for car wheels, coal, rails, etc.

There is nothing like owning a small piece of the earth—real estate. Then you can be your own board of directors, and can trust yourself not to cheat yourself.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S friends say that after a few more Presidential primaries he will have left enough votes to make his nomination certain.

The President himself wouldn't count unhatched chickens so cheerfully. Many things can happen between now and the convention. One important thing is that Senator La Follette is recovering from his attack of pneumonia and may decide to see what can be done with a third party, repeating the performances with which Theodore Roosevelt disturbed Mr. Taft.

MOST FOOLISH activity is the attack made on Mr. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury. Those that attack him should thank him for his service to the government.

No longer a young man, overworked, with gigantic interests of his own that needed his attention and that nobody else could attend to, he dropped his own business and took up the financial affairs of the United States.

He did this at a time when, as everybody knows, the best brain in the country was needed to manage United States finances.

HE HAS managed finances well, has made possible reduction in taxation, has cut down, by hundreds of millions yearly, the national debt.

He is giving to the public, for the salary of a junior clerk, the service of one of the ablest business and financial minds in the United States. He should be thanked, not nagged.

SENATOR WALSH of Montana, whose work at the head of the Senate investigation committee deserves the thanks of this country, says that Democrats can win if they name a progressive. He should say the Democrats MIGHT win if they were allowed to name a Progressive.

THE DEMOCRATIC party is kept in reserve for the purpose of nominating an absolutely safe man, one that would not disturb the governing powers, in case any accident should happen to the head of the Republican party.

THOMAS A. FRUNZE, who takes Trotzky's place as head of the army, while Trotzky runs Russia generally, tells the Russian soldiers that they must look on every capitalist as their deadly enemy. And their idea must be "conquest of all Europe by the Red Army of Russia."

THE PRACTICAL Russian problem of the moment, however, is to persuade some of those "deadly enemy capitalists" to lend Russia some of their money.

As to conquering the whole of Europe, that can come later.

Nobody has conquered the whole of Europe yet, and it isn't likely that anybody will, unless somebody should come from Asia.

AND IN ALL Asia there is only one sufficiently concentrated and intelligent power to be of any importance. That's the Japanese nation, and Nature, by the recent earthquake, has made it necessary for Japan to devote all her energies to home problems, at least for the next generation.

UNCLE SAM, through the Census Bureau, has been counting up his money and finds that his entire nation is worth three hundred and twenty billions, and about eight hundred millions over. Our wealth increased more than 72 per cent. in ten years. That's encouraging. The average wealth of the United States, the amount for each person, is $2,918. All this, of course, means nothing. Three hundred and twenty billions is only a fraction of the national wealth. Ninety-nine per cent. of our wealth is undeveloped. At the price paid for nitrogen during the war the nitrogen in the air above was worth twenty-five hundred dollars every square foot of land—assuming the owner of the land to be entitled to the wealth in the expanding pyramid of air above him.

There is no end to this nation's wealth.

EUROPE IS almost as ignorant about the United States as the United States is about Europe, generally speaking. German papers say that the United States government tried to persuade Borgdoll, war slacker, to come back, promising him kind treatment. The idea of the United States government, says the German newspaper, was to distract attention from the oil inquiry and save the Republican party. That's about as intelligent as some of the things that our learned newspaper men write about what is happening in Europe.

ATTACK ON GIRLS CHARGED TO POLICEMAN

Two Inmates of the Lancaster School Alleged Victims; on Trial Today

Patrolman Francis J. Riordan of the City Point Police Station went on trial today before a board of captains, charged with attacking young South Boston girls, inmates of the Lancaster School.

The alleged attacks are declared in the police charge to have occurred in a garage in M street, South Boston, while the girls were home on probation. They were sent back to the school where the matron drew the story from them.

Riordan denied the charge, declaring that the only time he had seen the girls was on occasions when he drove them away from street corners.

WRONG BODY SENT; WIDOW GETS $18,000

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 1.—A Circuit Court jury awarded $18,000 to Mrs. Laura Metcalfe, of Evansville, Ind., in her suit against the Western Kentucky State Hospital for the Insane here, W. W. Durham, hospital superintendent, and the University of Louisville.

Mrs. Metcalfe alleged the body of her husband, a Methodist minister, who died in the hospital, was shipped to the University of Louisville for dissection in the school's medical college.

After the initial error in shipment had been discovered, the plaintiff further alleged, a body other than that of her husband was shipped her at Paducah.

NOLAN SISTERS UNDERGO LIKE OPERATIONS

Mrs. George M. Cohan and Mrs. Helen Fuller Recuperating at Same Hospital

Mrs. Helen Fuller, daughter of John Nolan of No. 149 Winthrop road, Brookline, and her sister, Mrs. George M. Cohan, wife of the theatrical producer and actor, are both at the Fifth Avenue Hospital, New York city, recuperating from operations.

Mrs. Cohan was Agnes Nolan of Brookline before her marriage and appeared on the stage under the name of Merrill. Mrs. Fuller is the wife of Harry Fuller and has three children. She makes her home with her father.

Requiring the same kind of operation, the two women decided to go to the same hospital. Mrs. Fuller went to New York two weeks ago, being joined at the hospital several days later by Mrs. Cohan.

The operations were successful and Mrs. Cohan is planning to return soon to the Cohan estate at Great Neck, L. I., while Mrs. Fuller expects to return to her home about the same time.

GETS 75 YEARS FOR ATTACK ON WOMAN

Chicago, April 1.—Harry C. Thomas, who confessed one murder and 275 robberies, in addition to numerous attacks upon women and little girls, was given a sentence of seventy-five years. The sentence was passed on the single charge of attack upon a woman.

Thomas is forty-two.

What Bay Staters Are Saying

WILBUR LA ROE, JR., counsel in the New England port differential case, declared before a meeting of the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce: "The port of Boston stands directly between the great grain fields of the country and the biggest ports of Europe, and yet it has sunk to mediocrity."

PRES. LEMUEL H. MURLIN of Boston University, in his annual report, just made public, says: "Henceforth our growth must be intensive, rather than extensive. We must have a large increase in our working capital. We shall need millions of dollars to take proper care of our thousands of students."

MAYOR CURLEY, in a letter written in answer to the Finance Commission's latest report, declared: "The city's needs and the amount of money available are the only considerations which should prompt action, favorable or otherwise, on the part of a department head."

PROFESSOR ERNEST R. GROVES, Boston University sociologist, declared before an assembly of ministers at the Congregational House, Beacon street: "The trend of modern urban life toward the flat, hotel and apartment house has removed almost entirely from the family the old feeling of responsibility for the home."

BISHOP WILLIAM LAWRENCE, in an address before a distinguished audience in the University Club, New York, said: "Washington and its virtues and vices reflect the character and habits of our people. The conditions there today are not due primarily to politics, nor to conscious dishonesty, but to the fact that men generally well-intentioned, facing strange conditions, under unaccustomed pressure, do not think straight."

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and how she was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The Doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed." —Mrs. Gus Vogel, 6606 Pelouze St., Detroit, Michigan.

A record of fifty years service must convince women of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

HAT LEADS TO BOY HUNT FOR KIBRICK GIRL

Police Search Swamp in Vain, Following a Find Near Brockton Stream

Brockton, April 1.—A girl's straw hat, lying beside a stream in a swamp district off Alger street, sent the police on a search of the swamp today in the belief that the hat may have been worn by Olga Kibrick, Brockton High School girl, who has been missing two weeks.

The hat was evidently new not more than a month ago. According to the police, it has been exposed to the elements for at least two weeks.

Carl Van Kelp, who lives on Alger street, near the East Bridgewater line, found the hat and turned it over to the police.

Following their unsuccessful search of the swamp during the night and early morning hours, the police showed the hat to Miss Kibrick's father. He declared that, while it resembled the hat worn by Olga when she disappeared, he was positive it was not hers.

1923 BRITISH SURPLUS TOTALS $241,645,365

London, April 1.—Official figures for the fiscal year showing the total income of the United Kingdom was $241,645,365 more than the expenditures were greeted with satisfaction by today's newspapers. One feature upon which the commentators dwell is that during the year Great Britain reduced her national debt by $440,000,000. Of this $200,000,000 was provided in the last budget, while the $240,000,000 surplus now announced has been automatically applied to the debt redemption.

SILK TROUSERS FAD FOR WOMEN IN STREET WEAR

Loose Cut, Oriental Style, in Black and Yellow, Decreed for Spring Fashion

New York, April 1 (I.N.S.).—This Spring and Summer the women are going to wear trousers—oriental trousers.

The bad news will be confirmed on May 13, when the third annual fashion show opens in Madison Square Garden. There they will show sample costumes of mandarin-trousered "novelties" in silks and satins. Old Tut-Ankh-Amen will just fade plumb out of sight and everything will be Ming dynasty Chinese.

SUPERCEDES TUT STYLE.

And, of course, every woman will immediately throw away all the clothes she already has and hit the old family bankroll a wallop that will equal all the seven wallops that Dempsey landed on Willard in outfitting herself with this Chinese junk.

An authority on these foolish fashions of women today remarked:

"The King Tut idea was forced to a larger degree than any other style craze ever popularized in the United States. The peculiar patterns and designs of many costumes turned out under that vogue did not really enhance the beauty of American women. The mandarin style, however, is adaptable to a majority of feminine forms.

EXPECT POPULARITY.

"While there is a suggestion of the spectacular in the mandarin outfit, nobody can question its artistic merit. Once the sense of oddity is overcome American women will, I feel sure, hail this innovation with delight and I shall be surprised if the Tientsin black and yellow for street wear with loose cut trousers and semi-oriental shoes to match does not prove to be one of the most popular ever introduced here."

Well, that's that. It may all be true. What's certain, however, is that if they are going to wear 'em they're going to wear 'em, and that's all there is to it."

8,000 MINERS IN ALBERTA ON STRIKE

Calgary, April 2.—Eight thousand miners in the coal fields of Alberta and Northeastern British Columbia struck after the last shift in District 18, United Mine Workers of America, had finished their tasks. Maintenance men remained at work. The miner demand a three-year agreement in line with one adopted at the international convention early in the year. Refusing this, the operators offer renewal for one year of the present contract but without the war bonus of $1.17 a day.

DRUGGED! INDICAN Shows Why People Feel That Way

ASK your doctor about INDICAN. He will tell you it is a substance looked for in examining his patients thoroughly. If he finds it in you—it means that the poisons of constipation are seeping through your blood into every muscle and every joint. This is what does the damage. It robs you of your pep—it poisons your optimism and good spirits—it gives you dull eyes and sallow blemishes there —it causes you headaches—it causes indigestion. No wonder you feel drugged when constipated.

You can get only temporary relief from most laxatives. But Carter's Little Liver Pills, if it has been found, not only "physicks" the stomach, liver and intestines quickly, but also drives the INDICAN away.

Make this test! Have an analysis made of your specimen, and if the doctor reports the presence of INDICAN, or if you can "feel" how poisoned you are—immediately start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills as prescribed by him, or according to directions. Now have another test made and see how the INDICAN disappears. See how your complexion brightens and clears, your tongue is sweet and clean, you can eat like a kid again, in most cases.

He didn't know he was constipated—he felt "run down." See how the test proves he had INDICAN—the poison of constipation.

Same man after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills for only a few days—note the clean, normal specimen.

Important: Carter's Little Liver Pills, used for 47 years by millions of people all over the world, is a purely vegetable preparation and contains no drugs of any nature. It therefore acts in a natural way and is non-habit forming. Money refunded if results are not satisfactory.

CHARLESTOWN BABIES WELL PROTECTED

Community Health Association Holds Clinic Twice Weekly for Mothers

This is the thirty-second of a series of articles which is a sequel to this newspaper's investigation of medical quackery in Greater Boston.

If you are not acquainted with reputable physicians and wish to make sure of obtaining expert advice and fair dealing, the series will show you how to avoid quacks by patronizing Boston's health centres, the best in the country.

Big babies, little babies, fat babies, thin babies, all come to be looked over twice a week at the baby hygiene clinic of the Community Health Association in the Public Library Building, Monument avenue and High street, Charlestown.

Graduate nurses and skilled physicians are in charge of this station, and the fraudulent claims of quack doctors made no impression for the people of this district.

A thorough physical examination of the babies is first made by Dr. Lawrence J. Dervin, the visiting physician, who prescribes a feeding formula.

GUIDED BY WEIGHT.

The baby is then weighed and the nurse and mother given the feeding formula. The next day the nurse goes to the baby's home and shows the mother how to put the food together. Then the mother mixes the formula under the supervision of the nurse to be sure it is correct.

The following week, mother and child come to the clinic, and baby is again weighed. If the child shows a gain, this indicates that the formula agrees with its constitution; if not, the feeding is regulated accordingly.

Every case registered at the baby hygiene station is followed up at home, and a new physical examination is made the first of every fourth month.

Every Thursday afternoon at 2 a pre-natal class for mothers is held.

Toxin-antitoxin injections are also given at this station to children under six years of age.

A charge of 25 cents a month is made for baby clinic patients, and 15 cents a month for mothers' clinics. The district nursing visit is 75 cents. However, these fees are regulated according to the person's ability to pay, and just as good service is rendered to those who can pay nothing at all.

Miss Adelaide Hudson is head nurse and Mrs. Gertrude E. Brown, general supervisor of the Child Hygiene Department.

The clinic hours are from 2 to 4:30 every Monday and Thursday afternoon.

NAB WOMAN HERE FOR LYNN STORE THEFTS

Ida Cillier of Revere was arrested by Inspectors Wallace and Reason of the Lynn police as she left the Pemberton square courthouse, where she was arraigned today on a complaint charging larceny from Boston department stores.

She was taken into custody in the downtown shopping district Saturday, and is wanted in Lynn for alleged store thefts.

2 HURT IN BLAST AT NORWICH, CONN.

Norwich, Ct., April 1.—Gustave Lambert, former well-known wrestler, is in a critical condition in a local hospital and Paul Miller is under treatment for injuries caused in a delayed blast, while at work here.

Lambert, who is sixty-eight, was blasting for a cellar for a dwelling house, aided by Miller. Lambert's lower jaw was completely blown off while Miller lost his right eye.

BASEBALL ACE SECRETLY WED TO DIVORCEE

Rogers Hornsby Takes as Bride Woman Who Figured in Domestic Jar

St. Louis, April 1.—The climax to a "Dearest of the diamond" occurred here when Rogers Hornsby, champion batter of the National League and star player of the St. Louis Cardinals, took as his bride Miss Jeanette Pennington, a pretty divorcee.

The marriage, taking place February 23, was kept secret for a month and was not known until recently to even the ball player's teammates.

ACCUSED BY HUSBAND.

Hornsby, who is himself divorced, figured, it will be remembered, prominently at the divorce trial of Mrs. Pennington and her former husband, John A. Hines, automobile salesman. Hines accused the ball player of having broken up his home in his petition to have his wife's divorce set aside.

A short time after these proceedings, Mrs. Sarah Hornsby came here from Los Angeles and secured a divorce from her husband and the custody of their little boy.

LOVE LETTER SHOWN

During the hearing on the petition of Hines to have his wife's divorce, which she secured on the grounds of non-support, set aside, a love letter signed "Rose" and purported to have been written to Mrs. Hines by Hornsby, was introduced.

Both Hornsby and Mrs. Hines insisted that the letter was merely one of a friendly nature, Hornsby claiming that he had not known the woman before she secured her divorce.

Hines claimed that his lawyers had received telegrams from Hornsby's attorneys offering terms to hush up the matter. He declined, he said, he could produce witnesses among Hornsby's teammates to testify that he was the author of an unpleasant love letter to Mrs. Hines.

Nevertheless, Hines' petition was dismissed and his wife's divorce remained valid.

BISHOP TO SPEAK AT GORDON MEETING

POLICE ASKED TO HUNT WEST END BOY

The police have been asked to search for ten-year-old Daniel W. Gifford, Jr., who has been missing from the home of parents at No. 6 Parkman street, West End, since last Friday. He was last seen when he was sent to a store on an errand by his mother.

Von Stroheim Fined for Rage in Fight on Alimony

Los Angeles, April 1.—Erich Von Stroheim, motion picture director, was fined $50 for contempt of court when he neglected once while testifying in an effort to obtain a reduction in alimony payments for his former wife, May Von Stroheim.

Interrupted by counsel, he flared up with an "I'll smash your face!" His honor flared up with, "That statement takes a $50 fine."

DEALER LAUDS INSPECTION OF USED CARS

Plan Works for Good of All, Says Sills-Chevrolet Official

A Good Samaritan, relieving the distress of the used car buyer.

This is the view that used car buyers themselves take of the Boston American "Inspected-Insured" service, according to an official of the Sills-Chevrolet Company at 826-1240 Boylston street.

"We have made a number of sales to blessed people through the 'Inspected-Insured' service," said this official. "The used car buyers seem pleased that some disinterested party has put on O. K. on the car.

"When they find that somebody from outside is taking no interest in them, it makes them feel good. The plan is working excellently for all concerned, including the buyer."

The Boston American "Inspected-Insured" service is winning friends among the public because it has made it unnecessary any longer for a used car buyer to play blindly.

Skilled mechanics inspect used cars offered for sale by co-operating dealers, and the mechanical condition of the car is set down in plain black on the Boston American "Inspected-Insured" blue certificate. This certificate is pasted on the windshield, that the prospective buyer may read it.

The American service also insures the used car for a limited time against fire and theft.

Look for the blue certificate.

'RED ROBE' HAS BIG FIRST NIGHT IN BOSTON

Glitter and pomp and romance, the gallantry of a France three hundred years gone dark plots and dalliance intrigue, a weak King and rebellion in the stirring days of Cardinal Richelieu and King Louis XIII.

This is "Under the Red Robe," the Cosmopolitan film, that had its Boston premiere last night at the Park Square, before a capacity audience, enthralled.

Filled with stirring action, faithful to the history of those troublous days in old France when Louis reigned at King, the new Cosmopolitan feature picture is $1,000,000 worth, not only of entertainment, but of historical instruction.

Three stellar lights of the play-world move as leading characters through the action of "Under the Red Robe," although the majority of others in the selected cast are but slightly less renowned.

TRIO OF STARS.

Around Robert B. Mantell, gifted leading actor, John Charles Thomas, light opera star, and Alma Rubens, a favorite of many stage plays, is centered the story penned by Stanley Weyman.

Gil de Berault (John Charles Thomas), vagabond of France, most skilled swordsman of the land, whose prowess with the blade has won him the title "The Black Death," wins a reprieve from the guillotine for dueling, on condition that he shall bring Le Cocheforet before Richelieu. (Robert B. Mantell), or shall return without him.

The Duke of Orleans (William H. Powell) is plotting for the throne of his brother, Louis (Ian MacLaren), and to secure safeguard with the rebels. This Richelieu, real guiding hand in France, suspects and in the hope of unmasking the Duke sends de Berault on his mission. Rene (Alma Rubens) is involved in the plot with Orleans.

Off the stageboard, in winning about his capture of the rebel chief, falls in love with his sister (Evelyn Greenhill) and in turn between his love and the necessity for keeping faith with Richelieu.

LOVE TRIUMPHS.

Love Triumphs, however, and de Berault goes both empty-handed, only to find that Richelieu is on the point of being outwitted through the machinations of the Duke. The vagabond reveals Orleans' connection with the rebels, Richelieu is saved, and is grateful, and de Berault's alliance with Mme. de Cocheforet ends the rebellion.

In the supporting cast are Sydney Herbert, Genevieve Hamper, Mary MacLaren, Rose Coghlan, Otto Kruger, Gustave von Seyffertitz, George Nash, Martin Faust, Eleanor Sinclair, Arthur Housman, Paul Panzer, Charles Judels, Andrew Dillon, Arthur Dewy and Sidney Booth.

"Under the Red Robe" has been filmed for the screen in lavish manner that was evident on last night's audience. There are 2,000 extra players alone in the picture, the costumes are rich and the settings for the romantic story of old France are historic masterpieces.

The new Cosmopolitan film is tremendous entertainment.

MRS. REARDON, FINED IN RUM CASE, APPEALS

Mrs. Helen T. Reardon knows by sight the members of the police headquarters liquor squad, so Sergeant Dan Hines sent Frank McCarthy, a civilian, to the Reardon home on Albert street, Roxbury, to "make a buy." A raid followed, Sergeant Hines reporting seizure of a small quantity of liquor.

Judge Hayden, in Roxbury court, imposed fines totaling $200 for an alleged sale to McCarthy and on the charge of keeping liquor. Mrs. Reardon appealed.

A LOT of new central office names are becoming familiar to Boston telephone users these days, as they take increasing advantage of the fast inter-city toll service now available.

Say you are a Boston subscriber. Your home telephone is in Somerville. Your business telephone is in Main. You call one from the other without thought of distance or political bounds. Metropolitan Boston weaves a daily fabric of speech involving hundreds of thousands of telephones in sixty central offices.

Then why not call Cedar in Worcester just like Regent in Brookline? Union in Providence as you do Porter in Cambridge? Manchester, Lowell, Brockton, as you would Milton, Lexington, Braintree?

You can. Right now.

Not only these, but scores of other towns in a widening circle. On Page 6 in the Boston Telephone Directory is the full list and the rates.

If you do not know the number, ask your local Information. If you do know it, fine. Give it to your own operator and hold the line,—just like a local call.

Waste not want not

L A Carton

This quotation is from page 10 of Swift & Company's 1924 Year Book. It is the watchword for the year given to our organization by L. A. Carton, Treasurer, in his address to Shareholders at the 39th Annual Meeting.

"Waste not, want not" is fundamental in a business like ours, dependent for its profits on savings obtained through the elimination of waste and through putting to its highest use every particle of raw material.

Our margin of profit is so extremely small, amounting to only a small fraction of a cent per pound, that only those who practice this old fashioned precept can get along in the packing business.

The 1924 Year Book tells about many other interesting phases of the packing business.

M'TIGUE BATTERED BY STRIBLING, BUT RETAINS TITLE

CHAMPION CLOSE TO KAYO

Newark, N. J., April 1.—William L. (Young) Stribling outpointed Mike McTigue in a seven night newspaper decision over Mike McTigue tonight. Stribling had a hard time with the champion during the early rounds but came on strong in the latter stages and won the decision by a wide margin.

Stribling's aggressive tactics kept him in the thick of the fighting throughout the bout, but Mike was still the champion. It was a great tribute to the fighters. The 14,500 people crowded into the arena and at least that many were outside.

Probably the most interested spectator of all was Ma Stribling, the mother of the fighter.

All through the fight she watched every move and only showed intense excitement when the tenth round unfolded and it looked as if her boy would win the battle. When that round ended Ma remained perfectly still and waited to the end.

She was perfectly satisfied, for she said that it proved conclusively that her boy was the real champion of the world.

It was a narrow escape for the champion and he knows it. His chances of all or most of his back of fighting ability to stand the battle he will decisively beat him.

This fight was no pink tea affair. The fighters mixed it up hard from the opening bell to the final there was plenty of action. It showed that McTigue can fight if he wants to and when he does such work will put him in good shape.

Paul Berlenbach, New York Jewish middleweight, whose undefeated streak was stopped recently by Jack Delaney, staged a comeback when he knocked out Harry Reymond of Akron, O., in the third round. The bout was scheduled for the full ten rounds, but ended in the Stribling-McTigue fashion.

Berlenbach's rushes proved too much for Reymond, who was game enough, but was wild and missed many chances to win over a finishing home run. Kroll, Identified with the Jewish race, from cuts about his face, finally went down again one minute and forty-three seconds of the fourth round after making a futile attempt to rally.

BOSTON AMERICAN'S RING RESULTS

At Newark—Young Stribling won newspaper decision over Mike McTigue.

At Nashua—Frankie Zurillo, Boston, beat Johnnie Mack, Fall River, 10 rounds.

At London—Ricky Clark defeated Kid Kelly, 20 rounds, for fly-weight title.

At Buffalo—Jimmy Slattery kayoed Fay Keiser, 3 rounds.

At Bridgeport—Jack Delaney defeated Leo Leonard, 3 rounds.

At New Rochelle—Jack Griggs won over Billy Rycoft, 10 rounds.

At Hazelton—Tom Bogash knocked out Frankie Madden, 1 rounds.

At Bangor—Tadsey Norton won over Jimmy Frizzi.

At Manchester—Johnny Harlo won over Barney Snyder, 10 rounds.

FLANAGAN WINNER OVER BUDDY CLARK

Tommy Flanagan of New Bedford was the winner over Buddy Clark in the feature bout at the Casino Club, Lynn.

In the semi-final Johnny Mayo of East Boston received the decision over George Forbess of Peabody in eight rounds.

In one of the other preliminary bouts Leo Barry knocked out Frank Latee of Cambridge in the first round, while Young Rochan of Somerville was awarded the verdict over Tommy Lee of Salem.

STASIAK IS TO MEET RUSSIAN NOBLEMAN

The fact that Stanley Stasiak has been added to the card on Thursday night at the Grand Opera House has added interest to the event. He is matched to meet Count Zaryoff, the Russian Nobleman, in a one fall contest. It is just two months since the Count arrived in America and he comes here with a wonderful reputation as a Graeco Roman wrestler. The fact that he is matched to meet Stasiak will give the fans a chance to see just how good he is.

In the main event Angelo Tara-mondi, the Italian Champion, is all set for his match with George Farnsley. Should Angelo win this match decisively he will be right in line for bouts with either Stasiak, Zaryoff or Lewis. He showed in his set bout with Kotsonar that he is the world's greatest Italian wrestler. He is in wonderful condition and his wrestler that beats him will know he has had a tough evening.

On the other hand, Bailey is out to get another chance to meet Stasiak and will have to beat the Italian contender to make the grade.

The match will be best two falls in three in a finish and the management will not stand for any draws.

In the opening bout Savage Touhey will meet John Kilonis, the rough house Greek in a one-fall contest.

Still another bout on the card will bring together Mae Livingston, the champion lady wrestler of the world, and Miss Bella Lasher, the champion lady wrestler of France in a finish contest, best two falls in three, for the title.

Giants to Play Chicago

Orlando, Fla., April 1.—The Giants, having evacuated Sarasota, are playing today with everything except the annual Spring question why the White Sox. Today the outfit moves to Jacksonville. The daily duel will continue over the weekends until the Giants and White Sox wind up in Chicago, two days before the opening of the season.

Marathon Course Is Lengthened

The full historic distance of 26 miles 385 yards will be run in the annual B. A. A. Marathon race April 19. In previous years the distance has been but twenty-five miles. Albert Geiger, Jr., chairman of the B. A. A. athletic committee, announced the change last night, and felt that the new distance would fully comply with the distance run at the Olympics.

The course will be the same except that the start will be moved back farther, from Stevens Corner, Hopkinton. The change will offer the field of entries an opportunity to establish a new record. Colonel Robert M. Thompson will referee the race.

Veteran Athletes U. S. Hope in Olympics

L. Murchison.

Chas. Paddock.

Veterans size up just now as America's main dependencies in the track and field events of the Olympic games of 1924. If they fail, the United States outlook is dim for the simple reason that only a few of the youngsters have flashed anything of greatness.

Joie Ray, Loren Murchison, Abel Kiviat, Charlie Paddock, those are the real American hopes in the matter of running.

Ray, a middle distance man, is growing ancient as runners go, but he still is the outstanding miler.

Murchison is performing in sensational form in dashes and has beaten the veriest youngsters with ease. He looks the certain winner of many points. Kiviat performed a comeback a short time ago that was startling.

Charlie Paddock, star of the 1920 Olympics, is "popping" since the lifting of his suspension and showing much of his early greatness.

BRAVES PROMISE WELL IN SPITE OF JINX

By NICK FLATLEY

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 1.—Getting rid of appendixes in the Spring may assure health and strength in the Fall, but it's rather annoying to Manager David Hannyfd, who admits he will have a good ball club for the start of the campaign provided too many of the boys don't have to go on the operating table.

Hanny has lost a regular outfielder and a mighty promising southpaw pitcher thus far, and thinks that's more than enough for one Spring. Joe Batchelder, who was operated on yesterday, is resting comfortably and everything, but it will be a long time before he can get back to pitching, and the Braves scrapheats were all very much interested in the young man.

Batch was a powerful youth with the courage of several lions attached to a good curve and fast ball, and he showed real promise in all his workouts. The Braves will keep him on the list, and nurse him back into form as soon as the doctors let him loose.

The club's other appendix victim, Gus Felix, is feeling healthy once more. He wired Eddie Riley, the well known secretary, to order him a block of tans and thinks the siege of sickness. Gus is out of the hospital, but it will be a month before he can attempt any half violent exercise.

Outside of the hospital cases, the club is in very good shape. Jack Kelleher has returned to the scramble, rarin' to go, and promises to give Bob Smith an anxious time in the fight for the third base job. Jack got away to a very bad start, spending his time in the first few days, and they say he is trying hard to make up.

Offers for the cast-offs are now pouring in. The local outfit is sure to start with a half a dozen good youngsters will be let out on option, and most of them will go to the Worcester Club. Jess Barnett found quite a few he'd be willing to take in the two weeks he spent here, and he put the work on.

ALL BRAVES VETS WILL BE RETAINED.

Practically all the veterans will be retained, excepting perhaps Walton Cruise, the only youth who has knocked two baseballs into the right field bleachers at Braves Field. Wally has been ailing all Spring, and has been more or less of a disappointment.

He was ambitious and all that when he arrived at camp, but hasn't been able to show anything. The wave bosses believed that a hernia operation last Fall would help the fragile athlete, but it doesn't seem to be so. Several of the big minor leaguers would snap him up, provided the large boys waived.

MEDFORD NINE TO BE CUT FRIDAY

James Mansfield, Medford High baseball mentor, cut fifteen baseball candidates in an outdoor workout at the Medford Common yesterday. The battery candidates will suffer the first cut next Friday.

As matters stand now it looks as if Fred Parshley, Bill Louther, Eddie Morton and Tiddles Nichols will open the season in Medford High infield. This quartet displayed a brilliant brand of baseball in yesterday's outdoor session.

Fred Parshley

The gardeners will probably be Joe Murphy, Fish Ellis and Naddie Mander. Tufts trio of veterans should easily win their regular berths in the garden.

The prominent moundsmen are Webber Knox, Shorty Conners and Winnie Gillis. Knox is slated to do most of the twirling for the Medford-ites in the league games, while Gillis and Connors will alternate in the box in the other contests.

The opening game will be played on April 12 when Medford clashes with Andover at Andover. Dick Phelan, Medford High manager, has arranged many out of town games and the team will be on the road most of the season.

JACK DELANEY SIGNS TO BATTLE ROBINSON HERE

By RINGSIDE

Jack Delaney, sensational Bridgeport middleweight who recently knocked out the colorful Paul Berlenbach in four rounds, has been signed to battle George Robinson of Cambridge in a ten-round bout at the Sifolk A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building a week from Thursday night.

In his last Boston appearance, Delaney disposed of Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia after a spirited ten-round mill.

Delaney also won a decision over Lou Bogash in a tussle at Bridgeport. As a result of his wins over Berlenbach, Loughran and Bogash, Delaney is considered the logical opponent for a contest with Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion.

Robinson, veteran of more than 100 gruelling ring battles, has the class and experience to give Delaney a real test. The Cambridge negro maintains that Delaney has a glass jaw like Johnny Wilson and that he will count with a knockout.

Robinson, it will be remembered, almost knocked out Wilson in bouts in Montreal and in Boston. On both occasions it was a short right hand punch to the jaw that did the damage. The same blow later stopped the heavy-hitting Hambone Kelly.

Jack Delaney

If Delaney has a glass jaw, as many claim, he will have his troubles when he clashes with Robinson. The latter is a sharp, deadly puncher and furthermore is able to get into a position from which to put over the big spoon.

Greb has always refused to meet Robinson. Jim Maclsaaid, Robinson's manager, says that the Cambridge man's aggressiveness and knowledge of the fine points of the finite game would make it impossible for the champion to outscore Robinson.

FAST WORKOUTS FIT EUSTACE FOR BOUT

The burst of speed shown by Allen Eustace in his workouts at the Tech gym indicates that John Peack will feel as though he run into a buzzsaw when this great pair of grapplers clash next Monday night in Mechanics Building.

Eustace started off the day with a brisk run and some light work with the gymnasium apparatus, and then took on his four partners one after the other for a few minutes at a time.

As he steamed up, however, he added his great pressure to his "antsing" style of attack—it defense and in a few minutes had his assistants gasping for breath.

In spite of his great speed, Eustace is very conservative in the use of his tremendous power and he moves with the ease of a well oiled machine. He does not waste a move, and no matter what the act he has in mind there is an objective, which, if he finds he cannot attain, it will be dropped and a new angle taken.

EIGHTEEN UMPIRES FOR "TWI" LEAGUE

Eighteen umpires were passed upon without a dissenting vote by the Twilight League.

The umpires for the coming season will be divided into two groups, one comprising those who will work only behind the plate, and the other made up of those who will perform on the bases.

In this manner it is expected that better results will be obtained than in the past, when umpires, regardless of the fact that one might have been more capable than the other, alternated between the plate and the bases.

The following men comprise the list from which President Davidson will pick his indicator holders for the coming year: John Cavanaugh, William Grady, Dan Barry, Dan Curtin, Nicie Coughlin, George Grimes, Bernard Hagan, Thomas Fitzpatrick, William Lynch, John Kelley, Dan Kelliher, Larry Mahoney, Peter McLaughlin, William Mullins, William O'Connor, Harry Reardon, Fanny White, Howard Woodlock and Jack Stafford.

FALL RIVER SOCCER TEAM ARRIVES HOME

Fall River, April 1.—The members of the Fall River soccer club, who defeated the Vesper Buicks at St. Louis, are due to arrive in this city about nine o'clock tonight, and the whole population will turn out to welcome them.

Mayor Edmond P. Talbot, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association and many other organizations will take part in the celebration.

Manager Britian and his men are due in Providence at seven o'clock, and they will be escorted over the road by a large number of automobiles containing many prominent citizens and fans. There will be band concerts and a parade in this city and later in the evening the members of the team will be tendered a reception.

The soccer city is has gone wild over the victory of the local team over the Vesper Buicks, and this will be the first time in over twenty years that the championship cup has been brought to Fall River.

Madden High Man for 1923 Season in Racing Circles

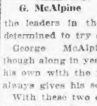
Complete racing statistics for 1923 show that John E. Madden led the list of winning breeders for the seventh successful year. Last year 419 of the Madden bred horses pumped home in front of all opposition. The Madden breed won $637,630 in purses for their present owners.

H. P. Whitney.

Second place was gained by Harry Payne Whitney, who bred 253 winners, which won $391,463. The 4 position in breeder ranking went to Arthur B. Hancock, with 179 winners and $368,152.

YOUTH AND AGE MARATHON ENTRIES

There will be a feeling of family rivalry in the coming Boston to Ashland Marathon race on April 19, held under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association. In the list of late entries come word that the two McAlpine's of Dorchester, father and son, have entered the long twenty-five mile grind.



G. McAlpine

Although they have failed to finish among the leaders in the past, they are determined to try again for fame.

George McAlpine, father, although along in years, is able to hold his own with the younger lads and always gives his son a battle.

With these two entries added, the total list to date is twenty-four, a new record for entries at this time of year.

SPRING TRACK PRACTICE AT TUFTS

After a four week rest, the Tufts college track team will resume training for the spring program of dual track meets that are carded to take place at Tufts Oval.

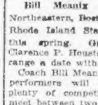
The Brown and Blue speed aggregation will then Northeastern, Boston University and Rhode Island State in dual meets this spring. Gradonis Manager Clarence P. Houston is trying to arrange a date with Boston College.

Coach Bill Meanix thinks that his performers will give the Eagles plenty of competition and a dual meet between two local colleges will attract much interest.

Capt. John Doherty, United States five-mile Olympic prospect, is ranked as one of the leading college milers in the East. Doherty holds the New England cross country title and he is picked to win a berth on the Olympic team.

In the Northeastern-Tufts indoor meet Doherty won the mile without any practice at all. It was the first time this season that he had reported.

Bill Meanix



John Doherty

Edwin Reece, is another brilliant long distant runner that should cut quite a figure in the dual meets. Reece, like Doherty, is capable of finishing among the place winners in the mile or five-mile events.

Eddie Cunningham, Van Fyfe and A. Solzio are the trio of Jumbo sprinters who will participate in the track meet. French is the best of the trio and Bill Meanix expects a lot of good results from the Medford college dash competitor.

Russell Hathaway, Elwin Gammage, C. V. Watson and Fred Littlefield are the 880 yarders. In the 600-yard run, Tufts will have Clarence Allen, Henry Jeffries, Morgan Hayes and Ted Snook.

Keith Killiam and Carl Ekelman are the outstanding stars for the field events. Killiam is a shot putter while his teammate, Ecelman, is a reliable high jumper.

SIEGAL AND LOWERY IN BOUT AT ARMORY A. A. TONIGHT

NATE BIDS FORGO WITH SHEVLIN

By JACK CONWAY.

Nate Siegal and Bob Lowery, a couple of free hitting punchers, will put Boston back on the flatic map when they collide in a ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House tonight.

Lowery, an aggressive, heavy hitter, battles along the lines of Young Kleby, Y. D. champion. He is also youthful and filled with ambition. As Seigal is fighting as well as he was when New England champion, the fans should witness a bitter, furious tussle.

Siegal recently started a comeback campaign. His pugilistic efforts have been crowned with success.

Joe Pangrazo of Quincy, Felix King of Berlin, N. H., and Johnny Avilla of Lowell have been knocked out as the Revere youth has punched his way out front in the flatic parade.

Siegal aspires to secure another tussle with Eddie Shevlin, New England welterweight champion. A win over the rugged Lowery will enable him to reach his objective.

Lowery has gone over big in all of his Boston bouts. He recently handed a dope a severe jolt when he walloped Al Sears of East Boston in a ten-round skirmish at Mechanics Building.

Lowery plans to force the issue from the bell in the first session. He says he hopes Siegal will follow his usual plan of swapping blows with an opponent in the centre of the ring. "If he does," says Lowery, "there won't be any cause for a celebration in Revere tonight."

O'NEIL MAY CAPTAIN SOX THIS SEASON

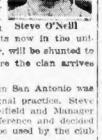
By FRED C. LANE.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 1.—The Red Sox party arrived in town this morning prepared to start its annual barnstorming trip with a victory. A two game series will be played with the local club which terminate tomorrow.

In talking on the Fort Worth team for the opening contest, Manager Fohl's charges are tackling the strongest club in the Texas League. The locals have been four times winner of the pennant and are strengthened again this season, according to advanced information.

Oscar Fohr, the only southpaw that will be carried with the club this season, was the choice of Manager Fohl for mound duty. He will be followed by Curt Fullerton, an East Boston boy, about the fifth inning.

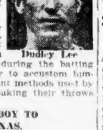
Fort Worth has long been noted for its pitching staff. It is here the true worth of our heavy sock men will be proven. Although eight rookies in charge of Hugh Duffey, depart in advance of the regular squad, it is expected that many lesser lights now in the uniform of a regular, will be shunted to some siding before the clan arrives in the Hub.



Steve O'Neill

The final day in San Antonio was given over to signal practice. Steve O'Neill, Lefty Leifield and Manager Fohl held a conference and decided on the signs to be used by the club for the season.

Judging from the manner in which the former Clevelander has been discussing the various turns in baseball it wouldn't be at all surprising were O'Neil made captain of the team.



Dudley Lee

Dudley Lee, shortstop, worked about No. 2 sack with all the pitchers during the batting practice, in order to accustom himself to the different methods used by the hurlers in making their throws to second.

DORCHESTER BOY TO REMAIN IN TEXAS.

The only sad incident in leaving San Antonio was departing without Cy Rosenthal, Dorchester lad in line. The former pittsfield flyer has been a thorn in the side of our best pitchers and appears to be in for a big year in the Texas League.

This promising player was the property of the Red Sox under the Frazee regime, but was sent to the minors without a chance to show his true wares.

"Rosey" as he is known, is a natural hitter that finds all pitchers alike. When up with the Sox, he appeared clumsy in the outfield but has since developed into a graceful guardian of left field.

It wouldn't be surprising were he docked out in a Red Sox uniform next season. At the present time, he is the talk of the camp as a result of his sterling work against his former club.

The Boston boy had hit the best pitching without trouble. In the six games he played against the Red Sox, he hit 11 times in 24 trips to the plate, two of the safeties going for two bases.

As Owner Harry Benson said: "We traded Ike Boone to Boston and he was the leading hitter in the Texas League last season, but in return we have a kid that will win plenty ball games in Rosenthal."

I think him one of the best investments on the club.

SOUTHERN CITY MUST PAY YANKS EXPENSES

New Orleans, April 1.—The city selected by the New York Americans as a training camp next Spring will be requested to put up $25,000 toward the training expense fund, Business Manager Barrow of the club said here before the Yankees broke camp Sunday night. The Yankees have trained in New Orleans several seasons and when the team left here Barrow admitted he had been considering a training site in Florida.

The blue of the Boston American "Inspected-Insured" certificate on the windshield is true blue. You can believe what the certificate tells you.

SOCCER LEAGUE MAY BE ORGANIZED HERE

A meeting to discuss the possibility of organizing a first-class major soccer league in New England will be held at the Essex Hotel next Saturday evening at 4:30 o'clock. Several clubs from the Southern New England district will send delegates and Herbert F. Murray, vice president of the U. S. F. A., who is interested in the new organization, has also been invited to attend.

Dake Elected Captain

Ithaca, N. Y., April 1—M. L. Dake, centre on the Cornell basketball team, has been elected captain for the coming season.

FIGURES SHOW RUTH IS BEST IN BASEBALL

With 29 records dangling from his belt, Babe Ruth will open the season of 1924 with the distinction of being the world's greatest baseball medalist, thus settling for the present generation, at least, the most question of who is the greatest diamond star in the history of the game.

His name appears as record holder more times that any other player, not excepting the wonderful Ty Cobb, who runs second.

What makes Ruth's achievements more remarkable is that they are the fruits of only nine seasons—1915 to 1923, inclusive. Cobb's records stretch over a period of 19 full seasons.

How many more marks Ruth will annex if he stays in the game 10 more seasons, it would be futile to attempt to predict.

Fifteen of Ruth's records have been made in regular season play, and 14 in world series battles, in which he has fought nine times. Nine of his records just now are shared with other players, but one season more will undoubtedly break the most of these ties.

His greatest supremacy lies in long distance batting; consequently, 29 of his marks relate to that arm of the sport. Aside from his individual honors, his value to his team is demonstrated by the record of batting for 170 runs in a season, and on top of that scoring himself the most runs in a season in the American League, 177.

He also possesses a third record in outfielding percentage of .992, and his versatility is further shown by his pitching record of 29 consecutive scoreless innings, 13 in 1916, and 16 in 1918.

With all these achievements, there are still three home run records that the big Bam will undoubtedly strive for this year. These are three home runs in a game, held by Kenneth Williams of the St. Louis Browns;

Jack Conway Picks Siegal to Win Over Lowery

Jack Conway, holder of the world's record for picking winners, hands out the following dope on tonight's Armory A. A. show:

"I am picking Nate Siegal to win over Bob Lowery," says Jack. "Siegal has displayed his old-time form in his come-back. He is a rushing, two-handed fighter and is able to wallop with each hand.

"Lowery, conqueror of Al Sears, will give Nate plenty of opposition. The Scotchman is a willing fighter and also a good socker."

Jack has smashed all of his own amazing records by naming forty-four winners out of a possible fifty this year.

ENGINEERS OPEN WITH TUFTS NINE

The baseball season at Northeastern University will open on April 9 with Tufts at Medford, followed by the Boston College game on the 10th at Chestnut Hill.

The schedule as given out by Manager Freeman today contains thirteen games five at home and eight away from home.

The schedule is as follows: April 9, Tufts at Medford; 10, Boston College at Chestnut Hill; 22, Boston University at home; 24, Brooklyn Poly at home; 26, Worcester Poly at Worcester; 30, Lowell Tech at Lowell; May 1, Rhode Island State at home; 14, Providence at Providence; 15, Rhode Island State at Kingston; 17, Brooklyn Poly at Brooklyn; 20, Fitchburg Normal at home; 24, Clark at Worcester; 31, Providence at home.

H. C. TWIRLING STAFF TO BE STRONG

Manager Robert Johnson of the Holy Cross baseball team has the 1924 schedule completely arranged.

Jack Harris

It is one of the stiffest that the Purple has yet faced and calls for games with many of the fastest clubs in Eastern college circles since Boston College, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Georgetown, Penn State and several other speedy nines will be tackled.

Jim Lavery, Holy Cross pitcher who left the college a few weeks back has returned to finish his studies. Lavery is a junior, but is expected to have a fine season.

The schedule is as follows:

April 19 Dartmouth at Fitton Field; 22, Yale at New Haven; 26, Villanova at Villanova; 28, Cresent A. C. at New York; Spring 30, Brown at Fitton Field; May 3, B. U. (pending) at Fitton Field; May 5, R. I. State at Fitton Field; 7, Trinity at Fitton Field; 9, Villanova at Fitton Field; 10, Tufts at Fitton Field; 14, Harvard at Cambridge; 16, Seton Hall at Fitton Field; 17, Penn State at Fitton Field; 21, Yale at New Haven; 24, Georgetown at Fitton Field; 28, Georgetown at Fitton Field; June 2, Tufts at Tufts Oval; 6, Providence at Fitton Field; 7, Harvard at Fitton Field; 10, Boston College at Boston; 14, Vermont at Vermont; 17, Alumni at Fitton Field.

FIRST FATALITY OF 1924 BALL SEASON

Memphis, Tenn., April 1.—William E. Davis, 17, is dead after being hit by a pitched ball in a game here, the first fatality of the 1924 baseball season. Davis regained consciousness after being struck and went home on a street car unaided but collapsed upon arrival. Physicians found his skull fractured at the base.

TWENTY FOR A QUARTER

TWO MILLION GOLF SWINGS

That's What It Takes to Become an Expert.

Practice strokes, 230 an hour, two hours daily, 210 days a year for fifteen years equals 1,575,000.

Playing strokes, 100 to each 18 holes (including practice swings), 240 rounds a year for 15 years equals 360,000.

Exhibition strokes for friends and photographers, 65,000.

Total, 2,000,000 strokes.

That's how many times Chick Evans has swung a club during fifteen years of golfing, during which time he has won the National Open title once, the National Amateur title twice and the Western Amateur title eight times.

While Sweetser and Sarazen have had more rapid rises to fame than Evans, neither one of them is as steady at pounding out pars.

Further, in his rise from dub to champion, Evans has walked on links distance equivalent to halfway around the world.

Golf figures were compiled on a basis of only five miles for eighteen holes and an average of twenty rounds a month for seven months out of the year, or a total of 10,500 miles for the fifteen years!

RAY'S SIXTH SENSE

Joie Can Time His Own Pace.

One reason for Joie Ray's success on the cinder path seems to be his queer ability to judge almost to a fraction of a second just what speed he is making, whatever the distance may be.

While he was in Columbus last year on an exhibition run, he told the newspaper men starting that "he would run from a mile in 4.30" that evening.

When the watches clicked on the tape Joie's time was 4.31½.

Like the stroke of an eight-oared shell, Joie's run to "time" his own pace with the wing without the aid of a watch.

FRENCH RUGBY

Slugging Due to Over Enthusiasm.

The Rugby Federation in France has been facing a quandry lately owing to the unfue roughness which is allowable under present rules.

After the Toulouse-Burrirz match last year, twelve of the Toulouse players out of the fifteen were on the casualty list. One sporting paper described the game "as having did example of street fighting."

The rough work, it seems, is not due to the unfue roughness which but rather to the keen rivalry between rugby teams in different parts of France. The Frenchman seems to let his enthusiasm get the better of him.

A player guilty of "roughing" is never ruled off the field unless his opponent is rendered completely unconscious.

FREAK DRIVE RECORD

Makes a "One" to Own Sweater Pocket.

The record for freak drives goes to Harry Moore of the Willowick Golf Club of Cleveland.

One day last winter while Moore, who is a left handed golfer, was playing out of a sandtrap at Willowick, he drove the ball into a nearby bunker. As it struck the bunker it took a reverse English and pumped into the right hand pocket of Moore's sweater.

BOY WHO WOULD BE PIRATE GOES AWAY AGAIN

West End Youth, a Frequent Runaway, Disappears; Mother Distracted

Ten-year-old Daniel W. Clifford, Jr., wants to be a cowboy or a hold-up man or a prize-fighter anything more exciting than just being a normal playing in the West End school-school occupies.

With this in mind Daniel has set out once more from his home at No. 18 Parkman street, equipped with his great desire, 45 cents in money and an innocent expression on his attractive face that wins him friends wherever he goes.

The boy disappeared last Friday noon while supposedly on his way to St. Joseph's Parochial School in the West End, and while he has disappeared half a dozen times before and has as many times been found in movie houses, in hotels and even in the South Station, where he was trying to get to New York, his distracted mother has been made ill by his absence.

Young Daniel's penchant for breaking his home ties is founded by the movies, according to his parents. He is a movie fan, if there ever was one, and he has often declared his intention of following in the footsteps of the two-gun and other movie characters.

When Daniel left his home he wore a blue sweater with a buttoned green knickerbocker suit, tan stockings, heavy soles of the golf type and black high shoes. He is slightly over four feet tall, weighs about seventy-five pounds and has light hair.

If you see and talk to Daniel don't be too gullible. His frank, open face will appeal to you and, according to his father, his ready conversation is directed by a vivid imagination. Turn him over to the police.

JESSE POMEROY BECOMES A RADIO FAN

'Great! Wonderful!' Exclaims Noted 'Lifer' as He Listens in on Prison Set

Jesse Pomeroy, noted State's Prison "lifer," author, linguist and making active contributor, has become a radio fan.

Jesse Pomeroy

Nothing in Pomeroy's forty-odd years of existence, behind the walls and bars of the Charlestown institution has given quite the pleasure afforded when he was escorted from his cell and allowed to "listen in" for half an hour on a radio set located on the prison property.

"It's great! Wonderful!" Pomeroy exclaimed as he removed the earphones.

"Of course I have read much of this remarkable scientific invention and of the great strides which have characterized the industry within the past few years, but I never realized how much of a factor it is in American home life," the noted prisoner added.

"And, do you know," he remarked to a prison attendant, "I recognized the voice of one of the speakers I have just heard. It was a clergyman who delivered an address in the Hub a few months ago."

Jesse was right.

LUDENDORFF IS ACQUITTED IN TREASON CASE

Companions in Futile Revolt Are Given Jail Terms and Heavy Fines

Munich, Bavaria, April 1 (A.P.).—General Erich Ludendorff, former German Field Marshal, was acquitted today of the charge of treason for his part in the unsuccessful revolt here last November.

Adolph Hitler, and former Chief of Police Pohner were convicted and each was sentenced to five years' confinement in a fortress and fined 200 gold marks. Dr. Weber and Colonel Kriebel, accused of being Hitler's aides, received like sentences.

Gen. Ludendorff

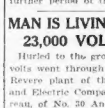
Dr. Frick, former President of the Munich District; Captain Roehm; Lieutenant Henry Purnett, who is Ludendorff's step-son, and Lieutenants Brueckner and Wagner were given fifteen months and fined 100 marks each.

The main streets of Munich and all the approaches to the courthouse presented the picture of an armed camp today. Steel-helmeted contingents of troops and heavy reinforcements of Bavarian police patrolled the streets, dispersing pedestrians who were inclined to linger on the corners.

An ordinance proclaimed by the police prefect threatened participants in riots or mob gatherings with penitentiary sentences or even capital punishment.

HAYS TO CONTINUE CZAR OF FILMLAND

New York, April 1.—Will E. Hays, czar of the movies, will continue on the job at least until March 5, 1928.



Will H. Hays

After the annual meeting of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., it was announced Hays' contract, originally signed on March 5, 1922, and which still has a year to run, had been renewed for a further period of three years.

MAN IS LIVING AFTER 23,000 VOLTS SHOCK

Hurled to the ground when 23,000 volts went through his body at the Revere plant of the Suburban Gas and Electric Company, James Beadreau, of No. 20 Andrews street, Salem, an electrician, was still living when picked up. He was sent to Massachusetts General Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list.

Beadreau was sent from Salem to work on a transformer at the local plant. He climbed a pole and started to work on the transformer, 12 feet from the ground. Apparently he grasped the wrong terminal.

When Beadreau was undressed at the hospital his whole body was found to be burned.

FIND SHRINE IN HUT OF WOMAN RECLUSE

"Mrs. Hull Is Most Devout," Plymouth Hospital Nurse Declares

The mystery room of the lonely hut in the woods of Assinippi, from which Kate Hull or Mrs. Catherine Hull was rescued from death by cold and starvation through the alertness of a member of the State Constabulary, turns out to have been a shrine.

Instead of containing a written history of the woman who some thirteen years ago took refuge from the world in the deserted shack of a woodchopper, the "mystery room" revealed little more than a colored picture of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and a painting of the Virgin Mary.

This third room of the miserable shack was scrupulously clean.

Beneath the picture of the Blessed Mother is a rough table and on this table a vigil-lamp, a tiny wax taper floating in a bowl of oil.

And that was all, save a much thumbed copy of "The Lives of the Saints."

SAVED HER MONEY.

Late reports from the Plymouth County Hospital at South Hanson are that the patient, a woman of about forty-five years, continues to hold her own. Superintendent Pierce and his associates appear confident that they can nurse her back to health.

When she is well enough, Miss Elliot, or "Mrs. W. P. Hull, wife of a college professor somewhere in New York," will be moved to the home of Mrs. Clarence H. Bishop of No. 2 Russell Street, Everett.

"When I was Bertha Castle and lived in Charlestown, some years ago," Mrs. Bishop says, "I was very well acquainted with the woman who is now a patient at South Hanson. For a period of eight years, indeed, we were chums.

EMPLOYED IN BACK BAY.

"At that time Mrs. Hull — I have no reason to doubt her right to the name, for I never knew her to tell an untruth—was employed by families in the Back Bay or Brookline.

"She was an unusually saving young woman, which accounts for the six bank books and the $6,150 which the police have discovered. And she was very devout, which may explain the fact that the Very Rev. Canon O'Sullivan of Cork is named in her will as chief beneficiary.

BOFIN, "IRISH DeWET," GETS 20-YEAR TERM

Carrick-on-Shannon, Ireland, April 1.—General Bofin, who, as one of the chief leaders of the irregular forces to their operations last year, was known as the "Irish DeWet," has been sentenced to twenty years' penal servitude, according to Mrs. L. Sheehy Skeffington, the radical Republican leader.

Bofin, an ex-captain in the British army, is said to have been the leader in the sacking of the town of Ballycouncil, when three civilians were killed. He also is remembered as the man who spent his honeymoon in the Arigna Mountains, marrying a Leitrim girl while the Free State forces were hot on his trail.

NEW BUS SERVICE FOR HYDE PARK

In order to save residents of Hyde Park and Dedham from being without transportation between Cleary square and the Dedham line, the city council granted a petition of Fred W. Pierce to operate a bus line between those points.

Pierce must still get Mayor Curley's signature to the petition and must file a bond with the city clerk, but it is not expected that this procedure will prevent him from furnishing service today before the obstacles are overcome.

CHARGES HUSBAND HURLS RAZOR AT HER

That her husband, Joseph Hart of Malden slapped her face, broke her eyeglasses, threw dishes at her, also a razor and a loaded revolver, are charges made by Mrs. Estella A. Hart of Medford in specifications filed by her in East Cambridge Superior Court in connection with her divorce suit, alleging cruel and abusive treatment. The specifications are in response to an order of the court on the motion of Hart, through his counsel.

MINES IDLE WHILE 135,000 CELEBRATE

Hazleton, Pa., April 1.—Mining operations in the anthracite coal region were at a standstill today, the 135,000 mine workers remaining idle in observance of the anniversary of the granting of the eight-hour day in the industry.

Only engineers, firemen, pumprunners and others whose services were absolutely necessary remained at their places.

Kennebec Ice Free

Bath, Me., April 1.—The ice went out of the Kennebec River, leaving it open to navigation from Gardiner to the sea.

Mothers!

Give the Children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

The following is from a recent work on teeth and health:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth. . . ."

"The cleansing action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but the reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S is a benefit and a pleasure combined. It serves two purposes—and its cost is very small.

Aids digestion, too, and acts as an antiseptic wash for the mouth and throat.

Choice of several flavors—all of WRIGLEY quality, standard of the world.

SPIRAL AERIAL BUILDS UP SIGNALS

Solves Problem of Erecting Efficient Antenna in Restricted Spaces

Fans who are restricted for aerial space, a d who have not the room for any equipment to work well with indoor wires, can make a wave coil, which will have a building up effect on the signal which crosses it.

The wave coil is a development of the United States Signal Corps, and is used for long distance reception. The form shown here is a slight modification of the original type and is suitable for broadcast reception with one or more tubes.

Make two wooden crosses, about three feet square. Take four pieces [illegible] each 25 feet long. [illegible] four-cornered cone [illegible] of the cross [illegible] insulation should be used for the support [illegible] Make the cages as small as possible and pull up well. SIGNAL CORPS SPIRAL ANTENNA

If space for an antenna is restricted, the best solution is a modified spiral, as devised by the U. S. Signal Corps. Such an antenna has a building up effect which will make up for its shortness.

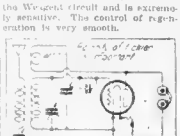
Church Gets Radio Service While Pastor Is Away

Springfield, April 1.—In the absence of Rev. H. F. Fulton, pastor of the Community Methodist Church in the neighboring town of Hampden next Sunday, the service will be supplied by radio from the South Congregational Church in this city which will be broadcasted through station WBZ here.

THREE-COIL SET IMPROVED BY CHANGES

[illegible] is an improvement on the popular one-tuned coil tuner. The change will usually improve the [illegible]

The circuit for the change of the three honeycomb coil tuner is given below. This is commonly known as the Weagant circuit and is extremely sensitive. The control of regeneration is very smooth.



The capacity of the condenser connecting the rotor coil with the filament of the tube has a capacity of .0005, so I thought the one that will not [illegible] would be. If the judgment [illegible] short circuits, the tube is lost.

FIXED COILS IN ONE-TUBE RECEIVER

The set described today was designed to combine simplicity and inexpensiveness with efficiency in operation. An incidental feature of considerable value is the tuning control, which is so designed that the set may be calibrated for [illegible] station received, so that it is possible to tune in that station again at any time.

The following parts are required:

One composition tube, 2¼ inches long by 2½ inches in diameter.

One tube, 2¼ inches long by 3 inches in diameter.

One ½ pound spool of No. 36 sco. wire.

Two .0005 mfd. variable condensers.

Two .0005 mfd. fixed condensers.

One 1 meg. grid leak.

To make a double bank coil two turns of wire are first wound on the tube, then instead of winding the third it is wound above the first and second and between them. The fourth turn is laid on the tube next to the second. The fifth turn is then wound on top of turns numbered 2 and 4. A little practice in bending the wire with the thumbnail when the proper point is reached will enable one to make a very neat bank wound coil.

Fifty turns are wound on the tube, and the end of the wire is tied by drilling two holes where the last turn ends.

WIRED FIFTY TURNS.

One-half inch from the coil just wound another coil of fifty turns is wound on the same tube. Both coils are wound in the same direction.

On the smaller tube wind ten turns of wire, beginning ¾ of an inch from the end. Slip over half an inch and wind another ten turns. Wind these [illegible] A [illegible] coil will [illegible] coil [illegible] A backboard should be obtained [illegible] mount the socket and [illegible]

The two coils on the large tube are both bank wound in order to conserve space and to obtain a higher potential in the secondary coils by induction from the primary.

one continuous winding. It is imperative that the completed coil on this tube be going in the same direction as the two coils on the larger one.

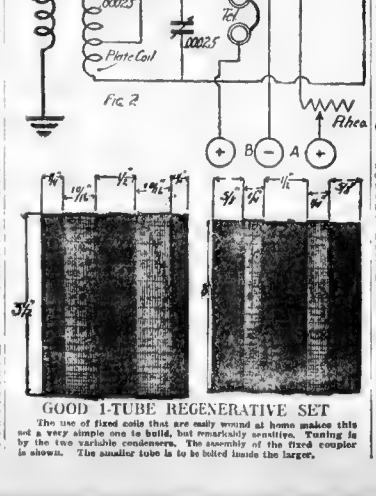
Place the smaller tube inside the larger one and [illegible] with the same [illegible] at the same time [illegible] at each end. Before mounting the two coils inside of each other solder together the two ten-turn coils on the smaller tube to make one coil of twenty turns.

The two coils are then bolted together after first putting a washer between the tubes to keep them separated equally all around.

At the thirty-fifth turn of each coil take a knife and raise the turn slightly. This is for the tap connection shown in the diagram.

Wire the parts as in the diagram. To avoid hand capacity effects while tuning the set, be sure that the rotary plates of the condensers are connected to that part of the circuit at ground potential.

FIXED COILS FEATURE THIS RECEIVER



GOOD 1-TUBE REGENERATIVE SET

The use of fixed coils that are easily wound at home makes this not a very simple one to build, but remarkably sensitive. Tuning is by the two variable condensers. The assembly of the fixed coupler is shown. The smaller tube is to be bolted inside the larger.

CHICAGO MUSICIANS SET RADIO PRICES

Chicago, April 1.—After April 15 no union musicians or singers in Chicago will do radio broadcasting free of charge, according to an announcement by James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

At a recent meeting of the union it was decided to charge $5 for a three-hour engagement after April 1, all appearances of less than three hours to be charged for as of three hours.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio Receiving conditions promise to be good tonight for stations broadcasting from the eastern part of the country. Stations from the Middle West and the West will not be so good, however, owing to the low barometric pressure in this region.

Radio Queries

I—Which is the better set, the [illegible]

I would like to receive a description on your RC Superdyne shown in today's paper. I have also a Keystone Amplifier and a C set and would like to make the improvement. Must I buy another tube or can the one in the [illegible] be made to [illegible]

HEROINES OF HISTORY

By Mark Sullivan

WHY PHILADELPHIA REMEMBERS REBECCA FRANKS.

PHILADELPHIA, during the occupation by the British in the early years of the Revolutionary War, was the scene of many brilliant social functions. Among those who participated in the gayeties were a number of young officers of the British army. Among the young officers was Major John André, who was later executed as a spy by the Americans. André was a handsome, accomplished young man, and he was a favorite in the social life of Philadelphia.

Among the young women who were prominent in the social life of Philadelphia at that time were the Misses Rebecca and Abigail Franks. They were daughters of a wealthy Philadelphia merchant who had remained in the city during the British occupation. Rebecca Franks was a beautiful girl, and she was especially admired by the young British officers.

Then followed a grand dinner given by the four hundred guests who had been invited to the ball. The dinner was served in the most elaborate manner. The tables were loaded with the finest of food and wine. The guests were seated according to their rank, and the dinner was served in the most elaborate manner.

Although many years passed the name of the "celebrated Miss Franks" is remembered in the city where she grew up. In the records of that time she is spoken of as having been a beautiful and gifted woman.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

We all like to see some results for our work. The carpenter takes pride in what he builds, the gardener finds recreation in the beauty of the flowers and the quality of the fruit and vegetables he raises, the stenographer derives satisfaction from a piece of work well done; the business leaders rejoice over the building up of a great, successful enterprise.

We like to see something we have accomplished.

This desire to see something tangible, to create something, has caused many men to shift from one line of work to another even after having attained success.

I believe the records of thoroughly analyzed, would show that this ambition to build something, this longing to do things which become visible to the eye, has more often taken hold of Westerners than Easterners.

I well recall that Wiggington E. Creed, who had built up a most profitable practice as a San Francisco lawyer, told me that by and by he had the feeling that a lawyer did not create anything in the sense that the railroad builder, the industrialist and the business leader create things, and it was this feeling which induced him to accept the presidency of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company after he had ceased to be influenced by any thought of financial reward. And, it should perhaps be added, Mr. Creed has derived more real pleasure from conceiving and carrying out gigantic plans for California's growth with power and water and light than he ever derived from winning a lawsuit.

Judge Gary likewise attained early and notable success as a lawyer, but he, too, found himself drawn towards the industrial field where the wrestling had to be done with concrete realities, not with logic and laws.

• • •

It was this same ardent desire to create something that led to the inception and successful development of perhaps the most remarkable agricultural feat in America, a feat which resulted in the filling of nine out of every ten cans of asparagus produced in America; to the production of millions of bushels of potatoes.

Lee A. Phillips, son of the college head who had never had a day's schooling in his life, went to Los Angeles and started practicing law with George I. Cochran, now president of the Title Insurance & Trust Company—with which he is still associated as vice-president—and young man did well as a lawyer. But arguing cases didn't satisfy him. He wanted to get into grips with things, he wanted to create something, he wanted to produce something.

His first activity took the form of investing all his savings, and all he could borrow, in land in what is now the West Adams district. He paid $175 an acre for it, applied himself diligently to improving it, and today that land is worth $10,000 an acre and more.

His next important venture brought him nothing but ridicule and difficulties at the start. He thought he saw great possibilities in reclaiming peat land around Stockton. Started with a modest acreage, he, in company with associates, whom he had persuaded to come along, kept pushing out and out until more than 20,000 acres of this soft, swampy land were made fit for cultivation. Since then 40,000 additional acres were taken in hand. Finally, the project covered no less than 100,000 acres.

This land can now produce some 3,000,000 bags of potatoes, more than 2,000,000 bushels of onions, and as already told, 90 per cent. of all America's canned asparagus.

• • •

Mr. Phillips declares that the chief credit for this result belongs not to him, but to Shima, the Japanese peasant, the most remarkable of all the Japanese who have ever come to this country. While Mr. Phillips and his associates were struggling along to get the land into such condition that it could be tilled by machinery, this man appealed and taking a small piece, showed how it could be done most economically and efficiently. Shima has since had broadened his operations until he was raising as much as 5,000,000 bushels of vegetables in a single year. His profits in 1915 reached $1,000,000. The government, however, took nearly 99 per cent. of it and the following year he lost $250,000, which he was not allowed to deduct from his previous year's profits.

• • •

The anti-Japanese legislation made it harder and harder for Shima to cultivate the land and when the ruling came that no Japanese could buy land or be given a share in the crops raised of the crops, he collapsed, stricken by paralysis.

Covering Movement by Shorts Is Continued in the New York Stock Market

AM. WOOLEN IS AT NEW LOW FOR YEAR

Covering movement started by the timid shorts in Monday's New York stock market was continued. Call money started at 5 per cent. American Woolen, after selling off to a new low for the current year, recovered and showed a gain of around a point.

General Electric was up nearly 3.

In the afternoon there were point to better gains for American Can, American Tobacco, May Stores, Famous Players, Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul pfd., Erie common and 1st pfd., Norfolk & Western, Willys-Overland pfd., Industrial Alcohol, Sears-Roebuck, Cast Iron Pipe, Reynolds Tobacco B, Otis Elevator and du Pont.

Studebaker sold off a point before railoking. Atchison declared regular dividend. St. Paul pfd. was at a new high for the year.

Associated Dry Goods rose 2 points.

Settlements on short interests in falling due today carried the French franc to a new high for the year. The Belgian franc also touched a new high on the movement on reports of a pending credit to Belgium similar to the $100,000,000 granted the bank of France to stabilize the French franc.

High Money Rates Mix Prices in Bond Market

Mixed price movements prevailed in the New York bond market as continued high money rates caused a further shifting of funds into other channels.

"Shot" 6s bounded up more than a point after announcement that the agreement with the Wisconsin Central had been ratified and the plan for an exchange of securities declared operative.

Swiss 8s declined 1¼ point's on the news of a new $30,000,000 loan to the government.

Marland is also lost ground and Kelly Springfield 6s reacted following a decline in the common stock.

American Telephone Up in Trading in Boston

American Telephone rose a major fraction in transactions on the Boston Stock Exchange. Stories of early new financing are denied.

American Sugar pfd., Copper Range, Greenfield Tap & Die and Eastern Steamship 2d pfd., all added a point or better.

Wall St. Gossip

FIRMING up in call money all around is regarded as largely a reflection of customary April 1 requirements.

FAJARDO Sugar declared extra dividend of $2.50 and regular quarterly of $2.50.

MORRIS Metcalfe has been elected a director of American Bosch Magneto, to fill a vacancy. C. A. MacDonald resigned as vice-president.

SOUTHERN Railway has been granted permission to issue $6,600,000 equipment trust certificates to be sold at not less than 97.25.

COSDEN & Co. deny reports company is to do some financing to take care of its inventories.

MONTGOMERY-WARD sales for first 1924 quarter show 19.19 per cent. increase over those for like period of 1923.

EASTMAN KODAK for 1923 reports net profit of $18,877,289 after depreciation charges, federal tax, against $17,922,554 in 1922.

CAROLINA, Clinchfield & Ohio reports February surplus of $93,971 after taxes, against $29,455 in February, 1923.

IN 1923 British Empire Steel Corp. produced 5,193,695 tons of coal, compared with 4,254,874 in 1922.

HUASTECA Petroleum, Mexican Petroleum subsidiary, has completed Tierra Blanca well No. 23 with 20,000 barrels of oil at 1,946 feet.

HOOD GETS BIG CITY MILK CONTRACT

$30,238 Bid for Supplying City Hospital for Year Is Accepted

Mayor Curley awarded the contract for supplying 240,000 quarts of milk and 10,000 quarts of cream to the City Hospital for the next year to H. P. Hood Sons, Incorporated, at a cost of $30,238. The Whiting Co. was the next lowest bidder at $30,500.

S. Weller Sons of Jamaica Plain will supply the Boston Sanitorium, Matapan, with milk for the coming year for $7,100. Hood will supply Long Island for $5,032. Contracts will run a year.

Donohue & Riordan, a Roxbury concern, were the lowest bidders for new uniforms for the members of the fire department for one year at $42,826.

John MacDonald Construction Company of No. 77 Summer street, received a contract for additions at the pergola in the gardens of Franklin Park for $1,254. The firm was the second lowest bidder.

The Standard Oil Company was awarded a contract for furnishing 1,000 tons of asphalt at $24.480 and 200 tons of asphalt cement at $46 a ton.

BOY LOSES LEG AND ARM UNDER CAR

Worcester, April 1.—Run over by a one-man electric car opposite his home, Stanislaus Tawil Malaly of No. 55 Eastern avenue suffered a amputation of the left arm and leg. Walter Girard, motorman of the car, said the boy dashed from the sidewalk and fell directly in the path of the car before the brakes were applied.

PREMIER WINS TRAM STRIKE SETTLEMENT

MacDonald Survives Most Serious Crisis in His Political Career

By ROBERT J. PREW.

London, April 1 (Universal Cable).—Premier MacDonald survived the most serious crisis of his political career by inducing the tram strikers to accept a compromise settlement.

Premier MacDonald

The local importance of the news is that millions of Londoners are now able to avail themselves of the public transportation facilities provided by cars and buses, but the National importance of the settlement is greater.

By a vote of 9,428 against 4,377 the transport workers decided to accept the terms of the settlement. Had the workers declined to accept the compromise, Premier MacDonald would have fallen, owing to the discontent within his own party combined with the disgust of the Conservatives and Liberals at what they regarded as "weak handling of the situation."

The Premier's method of talking things over reasonably with the men, instead of resorting to strong arm methods has been a decided success in this instance and also gives promise of his continuance in office throughout the year.

MANY ATTEND OPENING OF ZA-REX PLANT

Fruit Juices to Be Manufactured In South Boston Building

State and City officials, prominent manufacturers, and others attended the opening of the new plant and office of the Za-Rex Food Products, Inc., at No. 803 Summer street, South Boston, which will be devoted to the manufacture of fruit juices.

Professor W. W. Chenowith of the Massachusetts Agricultural College was the principal speaker, his subject being "Conserving Fruit Juice in and Out of Season." David Lawlor, a veteran Boston advertising man spoke of his experiences in the advertising business.

Luncheon was served at the plant, Jack C. Stark of the Eastern Advertising Company was toastmaster. Prominent among those who were present were Joseph Smith representing Mayor Curley, and Fred G. Allen, president of the State Senate. Greetings were extended by Sales Manager Edward C. Edwards of the Za-Rex Company. F. W. Tucker, secretary of the New England Associated Grocers, and Morton Harrington respectively replied in behalf of his association.

See page 17 for Henry Harmon's cartoon on principals at the Za-Rex Dinner.

Mr. Hearst's Opinion of President Coolidge

It Is Exactly the Opinion of Millions of Fair-Minded Americans

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

W. R. Hearst, interviewed by the New York Times and other newspapers after he had spent an hour at the White House talking with President Coolidge, was asked this question:

"Have Mr. Coolidge's political prospects, in your opinion, been weakened by the attacks on the administration growing out of the revelations resulting from the congressional investigations?"

Mr. Hearst answered:

"I do not believe that President Coolidge's prospects have been weakened by the attacks on his administration, which are really attacks on the previous administration.

"They are to some extent attacks on President Coolidge's Cabinet, but President Coolidge inherited the Cabinet."

Mr. Hearst added:

"And the attempts to use a purely innocent and personal telegram to Mr. McLean for purposes of partisan attack have rather strengthened President Coolidge, and recoiled upon his assailants.

"I think the public rather logically argues: 'If that is all that can be done in an effort to discredit the President, he must be far above the malice of his opponents.'

"Meanwhile the President pursues his own way quietly, performing his duties and sincerely striving to satisfy the requirements of the public and of his own conscience.

"I think the people like President Coolidge, and that they want to give him a fair chance. And I think that his opponents gain nothing by being obviously unfair to him."

Mr. Hearst's description of President Coolidge as a man "who pursues his own way quietly, performing his duties and sincerely striving to satisfy the requirements of the public and of his own conscience," is exactly the description that millions of fair-minded Americans would give the President, for whom they wish success, just treatment, and full opportunity.

The people believe that President Coolidge is honest, conscientious, with no desire except to do his work well, and earn the approval and gratitude of his fellow countrymen.

They know that President Coolidge is, like themselves, an average American, doing the best that he can, anxious to leave a good name to his children, such as his father and grandfather have given to him.

He has never been overambitious, the making of money has never interested him. As a matter of fact he has only the salary that the people pay him, and he never in his life before had as much money as the people pay him now in one year.

And all of that, of course, he must spend in maintaining the position that fate has thrust upon him.

President Coolidge was not born in a cabin without doors or windows, as was Lincoln. But he was born in the simplest kind of an American farmhouse, and he had lived, until he came to Washington, in a house for which he paid less than $50 a month rent. His wife was a typical American girl, an intelligent public school teacher. He is bringing up his children as plain American boys, and will prevent their being spoiled if he can possibly do it.

How great his powers are, how he would meet the emergencies that may be thrust upon this country at any moment, the public, of course, does not know. But it doesn't know more about anybody else than it knows about President Coolidge, and it DOES know that he is honest and, as Mr. Hearst well put it, "performing his duties and sincerely striving to satisfy the requirements of the public and of his own conscience."

If as much could have been said about all our public officials recently there wouldn't be any oil scandal disturbing the public at this moment.

A man who is "performing his duties" and guided by "the requirements of the public and of his own conscience," will not go far wrong.

They Did It in Pompeii

Here is a suggestion for Captains Laffey and Hoppe, and their intelligent men who have done so much to solve the difficult traffic problems of Boston. Nearly every American city has established islands of safety in the streets for pedestrians. In some places they are raised blocks of granite set in the middle of the streets. In some places they are uprights, painted in brilliant colors or lighted. In others these safety zones are wide white lines painted on the pavement as a sanctuary for the person on foot.

Some such plan would be helpful at Dewey square, at Tremont street and many other spots in Boston. One argument against them is that Boston's streets are so narrow. However, human life is more valuable than traffic haste. Pompeii, unearthed, had streets so narrow that one could span them with a leap. Yet stone islands of safety, to protect plebeians from patricians' chariots, bear witness to the foresight of the B. C. traffic cops.

New Scales for Old

Or Why Do the Inspectors Refuse to Pass Rebuilt Weighing Machines?

"By the way," usually prefaces something interesting. "By the way," said Frank Best, "a man came into the business office of the American for a position in our inspected used car department, which is growing very fast. This man belonged to that type of the intelligent machinist who becomes our inventor of tomorrow. When we asked him why he should be looking for a job, he said he had built up a flourishing specialty business in Boston. Suddenly it collapsed.

"His was the business of repairing and rebuilding weighing machines. He was familiar with everything in that line from the hair tilting chemist's balance to freight car scales. He said his rebuilt scale were as worthy as a repaired watch or a rebuilt typewriter and business grew rapidly until the weighing inspectors suddenly refused to pass any rebuilt scales.

"He can prove, he says, that a scale, being composed of steel or iron, will last indefinitely if worn parts are replaced. But a repaired scale stops the sale of new scales. If that man is telling the truth the only trouble with him was that his work was too good.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HOPE that most of you will pass this section by today. Or, if you read, I hope you will not understand it. It is written out of a great pity for and a grim knowledge of heart break; and the smaller the audience the happier I will be. But it must be written. The world does very little for those whose hearts are broken. At best it weeps with them or shelters them as though they were already amongst the dead. That is all. It has no philosophy for them—expects no service—offers no rewards. Resignation is their highest virtue. Theirs is the dank and sunless march of ghosts.

That is all wrong. Great and serene joy may yet come to those whose hearts are broken. Bright adventures may be theirs, fierce conquests and beautiful discoveries. Life did not die beneath their flood of tears. Indeed, I truly think that only the broken-hearted can know the secret of power in life. They CAN know that secret. But they seldom do. So few have ever come whole through the valley of despair. And of those few, hardly any have had wit or courage to tell of the amazing strength which comes after the agony. It should be told.

FOR THE TRUTH IS THIS: HEART BREAK IS NOT THE END; IT IS BUT THE BEGINNING—IF WE CAN SEE IT SO. HEART BREAK IS NOT DEATH; IT IS BIRTH—IF WE WILL IT SO.

Happiness is a beautiful slavery—but it is still slavery. You are tied to the people and the things about you. They minister to you. They fill you with content and ecstasy. But in just the proportion that they minister, to just that degree do you depend upon them and are bound to them by them. As long as you are personally satisfied, you are bound to the things that satisfy you. And I for one would not wish it otherwise with you, my friend. One buys freedom and wisdom at such a terrible price.

But the day people and things fail you, you are FREE. You stand alone at last. It is a terrible loneliness. For the majority of the broken-hearted it never ceases to be a terrible loneliness. As long as you only think of the loneliness, the horror will never cease. But there is truly much more to be thought of.

After your first wrenching agony you find that your heart is still. The little voices all have gone away. Anger and fear, lust and conceit, jealousy and suspicion—these things stirred you once. They were part of that warm reaction you gave to life in happier days. They were the other side of love and ambition. But now they do not stir you. They are broken toys which have lost their meaning. Your heart is still. And at first you are terrified at that stillness. You wish the noise would come back again. You wish you could be hurt or happy again as once you were.

Then comes your test. Either you give up at this point, or you go on. For now, being freed from that more personal concern with life, you can go out into the world and see life as you never could have seen it before—if you will. You can speak to humanity as you never could have spoken when your tongue was thick with your own laughter and your eyes were blinded by your own dreams. You can lay your hands on humanity with a power which was never yours when your hands thought only of their own gain. You can walk the streets of life, peaceful and strong and serene, as one would walk who had risen from the dead, to find life much simpler and less hard to bear. Men and women will come to your serenity and give themselves up to your power, for your egotism will no longer bar them or weaken you.

That is the heritage of those whose hearts are broken, if they will have it so.

Nothing for Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband has only been on part time and now he is out of work. I have two children, a boy six and a girl two and one-half, and am expecting the stork again next week. I have nothing for the newcomer and don't know what I am to do for clothes for the other two. Can you help me?

MRS. C. S.

Offers to Share

Editor Helping Hand:

I have quite a bit of clothing, size 38, and some for a child three, which I would be pleased to send to someone in need. Most of these things were given to me, but they are in good condition. I am a deserted wife and mother with a child 4½ years old. I work, but am not able to get the things that I need. My child has plenty at present. But I need a pair of shoes, size 5 wide, and a Spring coat, as I can't afford to pay the price of a new one.

MRS. F. B.

Thank you for sharing what you have. We have sent you the address of Mrs. R. W. and hope that soon we will be able to give your name to someone who will help you.

Needs Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if you could help me with some infant's clothing for an expected baby. I am the mother of seven, and expect another one very soon. I have three girls, 11, 9 and 18 months, and four boys, 8, 6, 4, 3. My boys are in need of clothing, especially the two youngest. I have nothing for the baby who is coming. My income is too small to allow for clothing, so if you have anything to give me it will be very gratefully received.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON WHERE DO THE ELITE GET THEIR MONEY?

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE other day a gentleman moving in the first circles of society in Redwood, Cal., was sent to jail for 30 days for vagrancy.

His story is worthy of a place in magazine fiction.

According to the press report, a distinguished looking gentleman had been staying at the Sequoia Hotel. Of nights, impeccably clad, he lent an air of poise and dignity to gatherings of the socially all right in the hotel lobby. But he had an air of mystery.

"The man turned out to be a beggar by daytime, a beggar of the streets.

"After first being impressed by the polished stranger's grace, some of the city's police, resident at the Sequoia, became suspicious, and Officer Elgin Kreiss was detailed to find out what the man did for a living, if anything.

"Kreiss thought he saw the erstwhile social lion, one arm grotesquely twisted and one leg almost gone, wheedling alms from passersby on the street corner. But he wasn't sure. It seemed too fantastic. He trailed him again.

"The crippled beggar, ragged and lean, went into Dr. J. P. Dyke's office, apparently to lend authenticity to his pitiable condition and to get what he could. He touched the physician's heart, but before he gave him alms Dr. Dyke said suddenly:

"'Let me see that arm; maybe we can do something for it!' He seized the 'crippled' arm and gave it a professional twist. It was a perfectly good arm, of course.

"Officer Kreiss, waiting in the hall, was almost trampled under foot in the beggar's mad rush from detection. He streaked for the Sequoia to get into his fashionable scenery, and there the police found him frantically changing clothes. He had three fine suits and $60 in his pockets.

"Police Judge Albert Mansfield smilingly referred to him as 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde,' and gave him 30 days for vagrancy."

We tremble to think what would happen if some authority invaded a social function of high society in any of the big cities and compelled every smartly dressed gentleman present to tell where he got his money.

Some day it will come to pass that one's title to nobility, one's credentials for a place in high society, will not be the amount of money he has, nor the fact that it is dead men's money, but it will be the useful character of the work he does in order to get his money.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON IMAGINATION

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"We are counting on you," says a letter from Chicago, "to help us settle a discussion. Suppose an adult person of average weight fell headlong from an aeroplane, 15,000 feet from the ground, into a field, how long would he be falling? Would he land as he started head down, or would he turn during the fall? Does a person falling know that he is falling?"

SCIENCE becomes plays in the school of imagination. So it is well worth while to answer questions like these where the schoolmaster's ferrule creates castles in the air which serve to show the delighted fancy how real castles are built.

Some misapprehensions are manifest in the first part of the question above, but we will begin by giving an answer to it. In a little over one-half minute after he fell from his machine at a height of 15,000 feet the unfortunate aeronaut would strike the ground, with a velocity of nearly 980 feet per second. I will give a trimmed-down rule, or formula, which will enable any person to calculate for himself how long he would be in falling from any height near the earth. (Fifteen thousand feet is "near" compared with distances in open space.) The rule is this: One-fourth of the square root of the height in feet is equal to the time of fall in seconds.

The square root of 15,000 is about 122.475, which divided by 4 gives about 30.62—the number of seconds in the fall. This rule is only approximately, the acceleration of gravity being taken as 32 feet instead of 32.17, its true mean value. To find the velocity of impact with the ground, multiply the square root of the height by eight.

Now for the misapprehensions. Apparently the questioner assumes that a heavy person would fall more rapidly than a light one, and that an adult would fall at a different rate than an infant, because of difference in size. But in the calculations as made above, the weight and size of the falling bodies do not enter. It is true that they would play some part in the phenomena on account of the resistance of the air, but there are so many variable elements, depending upon the circumstances of each case, that they cannot be allowed for in a general answer. Besides, unless there was some special resistance, resembling that of a parachute, the time of fall would not be much lengthened.

Whether a man starting to fall head downward would continue to fall in that way, depends upon many circumstances which could only be arbitrarily assumed. If his centre of gravity was nearer his head, than his feet, he would probably retain the position, especially if the air was quiet.

Not much is on record concerning sensations of persons falling, and what there is seems contradictory. Some who have had the experience say that they were perfectly conscious of falling, but it may be that they were only conscious of secondary effects, such as the rush of the air, combined with the mental impression acquired at the start.

There is a case which has lately become celebrated because Einstein made use of it as illustrative of a part of his relativity theory, in which the falling man reported that he had no impression of falling, but instead the impression that the ground was rushing up to hit him. This indicates the equivalence of accelerated motion and gravitational attraction.

If you were shut up in an elevator which was falling freely under gravity, with no retardation from friction or air resistance, you would not feel that you were in motion, for your weight would vanish, weight being nothing but an effect of resisted gravity.

ONCE-OVERS

GET INTO SOMETHING THAT WILL BUILD YOU UP.

At the age of nineteen, the late Alfred H. Smith, afterward president of the New York Central lines, realized that he was in a rut, that staying in that rut would not allow him to reach the position in railroading that he desired.

He had what was considered a fairly easy and congenial job and became a section hand, with low pay, hard work and hardships which accompanied such jobs in those days.

He had a vision for a greater future than the job he had would bring.

Perhaps you are in a position similar to that of Mr. Smith.

You know that you are on the wrong track to realize your ambition.

But you are unwilling to give up a pleasing situation for a more orduous and less satisfactory one.

Are you going to allow a few years of hard knocks and unpleasant work to stand between you and a large success in later years?

The easier your job the more competition to hold it.

Better think for yourself and get into something which will build up.

For, at the age you must begin to slow down, a younger man will be chosen to take your place.
